Cozy Christmas Scene

With Christmas in the air everywhere, Leonard Makarewicz, Route 2, reads the story of the "Night Before Christmas" to his daughter Mary and son Marion in front of a glowing fire while the family dog lies snoozing. This will be the scene in many homes in Sedalia and across the country tonight as Santa Claus prepares for his yearly visit. (Democrat-Capital Photo)

'Peace On Earth' Exists For Time During Ceasefire

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The guns began falling silent in Vietnam Sunday under a Christmas truce and most of the world could rejoice that for a brief period at least there was "peace on earth."

Despite the threat of Communist truce violations, U.S. and allied troops in the green jungles, hills and rice paddies of South Vietnam looked forward to special Christmas dinners. The Americans will get turkey.

Far to the northeast, on the bleak and cold hills of South Korea, other American soldiers watched the enemy in North Korea across the demilitarized zone as they waited for Christmas.

Pope Paul VI in his annual Christmas message to the world wished peace for those who suffer or hunger and to the nations' leaders. He asked the world leaders not to arm their nations "to the point of fatal risks, nor fight on another."

It was a dismal day in Bethlehem, where Christ was born. Icy gales drove rain in sheets across the cobbled street and officials feared only a fraction of the 20,000 Christmas pilgrims expected would make it to Bethlehem. They said Israel had limited travel to holders of special passes and the threat of Arab saboteurs operating around Bethlehem also discouraged travelers.

It also was an unhappy Christmas for Berliners. For the second straight year, Communist

Another Coup For Dahomey

COTONOU, Dahomey (AP) — Frequent crises and a coup every two years seems the lot of this tiny West African country that attained independence reluctantly, can't support itself and has an educated elite more interested in going to school in Paris than working at home.

For the third time since 1953, the government of this French-speaking country, which depends for revenue on palm oil, the sale of pretty postage stamps and a French subsidy, has been toppled by the military.

But last Sunday, for the first time, the military ousted the military. The victim this time was Gen. Christophe Soglo, 58, a former African officer in the French army who deposed President Hubert Maga in October 1963 and then overthrew the regime of President Sourou Migan Apithy and Premier Justin Ahomadegbe in November 1965.

Soglo installed Tairou Congacouas president and a few weeks later decided to take the job himself.

Young army officers, mostly northerners, put Soglo on the receiving end of a coup last Sunday. They surrounded his house at dawn. He escaped through the American Embassy next door into French protection then fled to Abidjan on the way to Paris.

Although a coup implies turmoil, Dahomey—a nation of 2.3 million—evidently has learned to take them calmly. No crowds gathered in the dusty streets and only a few soldiers were in evidence. The 1,200 members of the French community went about their Sunday pastimes.

The wife of army Chief of Staff Alphonse Alley spent the evening before the coup watching the British film, The Knack —and How to Get It. Her husband stopped by a friend's house to say hello to U.S. Ambassador Clinton Knox, who was dining there.

After initially refusing to go along with the coup engineered by Maj. Maurice Kouandete, Alley was held in protective custody. But he emerged Friday as head of state in the new govern-

Presidential Trip Gives GI's A Lift

CAM RANH BAY, Vietnam (AP) — The GIs got a lift from President Johnson's second secret trip Saturday to South Vietnam. They showed their pleasure, and he beamed.

Cheers that punctuated the President's speech and a rousing hip hip hooray for the commander in chief at the end left little doubt that the fighting men assembled at Cam Ranh welcomed his Christmas-season visit.

Speaking at the airfield alongside the bay, with jets flying security overhead, the President —bareheaded, in slacks and a khaki shirt—told 2,450 American servicemen assembled from all over the country that this was a time of grave challenge.

"You've met that test, there is no doubt of that," Johnson said. "And the last thing I can bring to you is the promise that your fellow Americans will meet it too. We shall not fail you. What you have done will not have been done in vain."

The President's blue and white jet slipped into Cam Ranh after a brief flight from Khorat, Thailand, where Johnson had spent the night at an American-built air base and delivered a similar message to fighter-bomber pilots making the hazardous raids on North Vietnam.

An hour and 45 minutes later he took off for Karachi, Pakistan, on another leg of a round-the-world trip which began with the flight to Australia to pay

Fire Aboard Ship Deals Death To 5

SASEBO Japan (AP) — Fire broke out aboard the 38,000-ton U.S. Aircraft Carrier Kearsarge here Saturday soon after its arrival from Vietnam to observe the Christmas holidays. Three crewmen were reported killed and two others were injured.

U.S. Navy authorities said the fire started about 3:35 p.m and was quickly brought under control.

A spokesman said the Kearsarge pulled into the port from Vietnam with six U.S. destroyers and a tanker for the Christmas holidays.

None of the victims was identified immediately.

Three Youths Die Near Carrollton

CARROLLTON, Mo. (AP) — Trapped in a car that caught fire after smashing into a bank three Carrollton youths were burned to death late Friday night, the highway patrol reported.

The victims were identified as Kenneth P. Bradshaw, Billy Dale King, 19, and Dennis R. Standley, 16. The car apparently was traveling at a high rate of speed when it careened off the gravel roadway, the patrol said.

Release Political Prisoners

ATHENS (AP) — The Greek regime, in a sweeping amnesty, announced Saturday that all persons arrested after the April 21 coup will be released immediately.

The amnesty frees the military junta's most famous prisoner — Andreas Papandreou, a former American citizen — and composer Miki Theodorakis, plus 2,600 other political detainees held on prison islands.

From his refuge in Rome, exiled King Constantine welcomed the amnesty.

"I hope this is a sign that all Greeks soon will have the opportunity to express themselves freely and participate fully in the political life of the country," he said in a statement.

In London, Mrs. Helen Vlachos, the newspaper publisher who said she escaped from house arrest in Athens, expressed the view the new moves by the government did not mean a return to democracy.

But U.S. State Department officials in Washington said they were encouraged on the basis of press reports of the amnesty.

The amnesty was coupled with presentation to the government of the text of a revised constitution.

Premier George Papadopoulos announced the amnesty and also declared that a national referendum on the new constitution would be held next April 21, the first anniversary of the power seizure he led.

But it appeared unlikely that the referendum would be held on that date because it is Greek Orthodox Easter

Sources said the government will probably announce a new date for the referendum after taking the Easter holiday into consideration.

It was a spectacular gesture of reconciliation by the junta, clearly designed to silence criticism abroad and promote support at home for the regime.

The only ones excluded from the amnesty are prisoners in jail on ordinary criminal charges and those convicted by earlier regimes of illegal Communist activities.

Feels Problem Of Jobless Should Be Tackled First

WASHINGTON (AP) — "We have to tackle the problem of the hardcore unemployed," said Los Angeles Mayor Sam W. Yorty. "I think a lot of other problems would be solved if the unemployed had jobs."

Yorty was testifying before the National Advisory Commission on Civil Disorders, appointed by President Johnson to investigate last summer's riots and how to prevent or control future outbreaks.

The Commission made public Saturday excerpts from testimony Yorty and four other mayors gave at closed hearings in October.

Yorty's emphasis was on providing jobs for ghetto residents. Mayor Henry W. Maier of Milwaukee said suburban areas must share the burden of improving life in the inner cities. Theodore R. McKeldin, who was mayor of Baltimore, cautioned against failing to act positively for fear of appearing to reward rioters.

Jersey City Mayor Thomas J. Whelan told the commission that "riots are caused not by social conditions but by agitators who hate our country." He said effective use of force is the way to prevent or control riots.

Mayor Alfonso J. Cervantes of St. Louis said urban problems are a national problem "and this national poblem is going to have to be solved with national financing and national leg slation, and until Congress understands the real problems, there isn't much we can do."

Yorty, who told of jobs provided in the Watts area of Los Angeles by private industry, said "The continued existence of a free enterprise system may depend upon bringing the hardcore unemployed into the system."

In words similar to those used by President Johnson in a televised interview last Tuesday night, Yorty said:

"I think that eventually facts are going to force us to provide employment for every person who is willing to work, and if they can't be provided with employment in the private sector, I think they ought to be employed in the public sector."

Oklahoma Youth Receives 1967 DeMolay Title

KANSAS CITY (AP)—An Oklahoma City University student, Rickie Dionne Beller, 19, Midwest City, Okla., Saturday was named the 1966-67 "DeMolay of the Year."

George M. Saunders, grand secretary of the International Supreme Council of the Order of DeMolay, said Beller had been selected most outstanding member of the international youth organization which has about 166,000 active members.

Beller, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Beller, will receive his trophy at the 1968 annual council convention March 31-April 3 in Washington, D. C.

Christmas Comes Early But Is Indeed Merry

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP) — Christmas came a few days early this year for 12-year-old Henry Haslup, son of Charles Haslup, a city patrolman.

Last October, his bicycle was stolen from the front yard of his home.

Friday he was summoned to the American National Bank in suburban Westview, where he has a small checking account. There he found a new bicycle. Bank employes had heard of his misfortune and chipped in to buy him a replacement in time for Christmas.

Film Opening Is Bad News For Picketers

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The opening of a film dealing with interracial marriage had a second feature of seven American Nazi Party picketers being beaten by a crowd of some 50 angry young men.

The uniformed Nazis carried signs saying "Race-Mix Movies are Jewish" and "Black and White Together Make a Scumy (sic) Sick Gray" as they marched Friday night in front of a theater showing "Guess who's Coming to Dinner?"

The jeering crowd knocked the marchers into the street, bloodying some of them. No arrests were made and the picketers sped off in a station wagon.

Before the picketing, a spokesman at the party's El Monte headquarters said the demonstration was not authorized.

President Talks Peace With Pope

VATICAN CITY (AP) — President Johnson saw Pope Paul VI for an hour in an unprecedented Christmas-season audience Saturday night, and said they talked about the "vital necessity of taking new steps to bring peace to Vietnam."

Then the Presidential plane took off for Shannon Airport, Ireland, the last stopover on a trip that had taken him in five days to Australia, Thailand, South Vietnam, Pakistan and Italy.

Emerging from his meeting with Pope Paul, Johnson said the Pontiff had suggested to him "the principle of mutual restraint."

"We would agree any day to exchange talks and meetings for the knife and the grenade," the President said as he left the Apostolic Palace.

Johnson repeated what he has said on many occasions—that the United States is willing to undertake peace talks with the North Vietnamese at any time.

Johnson said that "in my meeting with His Holiness, we discussed the vital necessity of taking new steps to bring peace to Vietnam and to maintain

Approve Highway Locations

W. H. Dill, engineer for District Four of the Missouri State Highway Commission, has announced that final approval had been given by the commission for two highway locations.

The road projects involved are south Highway 65 from Route F in Pettis County south to 0.6 mile south of the Pettis-Benton County line, and Highway 50 from a point southeast of Dresden, east to the Sedalia city limits.

Dill's letter said the Commission had given its approval Dec. 7. Both route locations were discussed in open hearings on separate dates in Sedalia recently.

The letter said, "It will require several months to complete the survey and prepare preliminary plans on this project. We will be pleased to discuss this location with you when the preliminary plans are available."

Hail Of Bullets Wounds Young Boy

ST. LOUIS (AP) — A 23-month-old boy was critically wounded Saturday by one of a hail of bullets fired through the door of a home where the child and his mother were visiting.

Police identified the child as Sequilla Johnson, a son of Mrs. Johnnie Ruth Johnson.

Investigators said six bullets were fired through the door.

One struck the child in the back. He was taken to Homer Phillips Hospital.

Police said a Negro man was seen fleeing from the scene.

Officers said there was no apparent reason for the shooting.

Annual Christmas Party

Several thousand children attended the annual Policemen's Christmas party held at the Sedalia Police Department Saturday from 9 a.m. until 4 p.m. In addition to oranges, donuts and candy which were handed out, the children were treated by a visit from Santa Claus. (Democrat-Capital Photo)

Ann Landers

Dear Ann Landers: The letter from the LSD user caused a lot of talk on our campus. I heard some kids say, "That settles it for me." Can you use one more letter that might "settle it" for some others?

I'm a 20-year-old college student (male) who thought it might be a groovy experience to "expand my mind." I smoked a couple of joints (marijuana) and felt pretty good after the pot excursions. The next step for me was LSD. I figured if pot made me high, LSD would really zoom me out of this world. You wouldn't believe how easy it is to get LSD around here.

My first trip was fair but my second trip was bad—very bad. My third trip was agony. It took me three days to figure out who I was and where I was. That was two months ago and I'm far from normal as I write this letter.

In a crowd (study halls are crowded) I still get that up-tight feeling. Don't ask me what I'm afraid of. I don't know. A casual conversation usually turns into a heated argument. When anyone disagrees with me I become furious. Later I am filled with remorse and I get awfully depressed.

During these depressions all my character defects loom up in exaggerated form to plague me. I feel like the biggest liar, the laziest, most useless, rottenest person on earth. I get to thinking maybe I don't deserve to live and suicide seems like the sure way to take me out of my misery. Then a voice that sounds like God keeps saying, "You'll come out of this. Fight back." So I keep fighting.

I am luckier than most kids. My parents are great and they have been very understanding. I am under psychiatric care and I know now that one day I'll make it back.

I hope you will print my letter, Ann, and give me the opportunity to help some other stupid kid to learn for nothing what nearly cost me my life. — EXHIPPY

Dear Ex-Hippy: Here's your letter and my thinks for writing it. Now, may I add a word?

There are no shortcuts to peace of mind and inner security. Contentment cannot be found in a bottle, a pill, a needle or on a sugar cube. The person who wants to get away from himself is the very one who can least afford to try it. He is the cop-out, the unstable, maladjusted personality who will crack when the going gets rough. He is the very one who should grab hold of something solid and hang in there for all he's worth.

No one ever solved a problem or dealty successfully with a crisis by running away from it. Drugs and alcohol are methods of escape. All they do is further befuddle and finally depress an already confused and unhappy person.

Physicians all over the country have reported an increasing number of psychotic teen-agers who have flipped out after experimenting with drugs. Some of these kids will never be rational human beings again as long as they live. What a terrible price to pay for a "groovy experience."

Confidential to: Hate those glass windows: A person who wears glasses "even though he doesn't need them," needs them. He hides behind the glasses in a variety of ways. They make him feel intellectual, or they may cover dark circles or wrinkles—or they may provide just the measure of separation he needs from himself and the next fellow.

How far should a teen-age couple go? Can necking be safe? When does it become too hot to handle? Send for Ann Landers booklet, "Necking And Petting — What Are The Limits?" Mail your request to Ann Landers in care of your newspaper enclosing 50 cents in coin and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

An Unexpected Christmas Gift For a Couple

BRIGG, England (AP) — Gordon Dunderdale had 10 children when he fell asleep in front of the television.

When he woke up he had 11—and he didn't know his wife was pregnant.

Neither, she said, did Mrs. Dunderdale.

The eventful night in the life of the Dunderdales started when Gordon, 38, settled down in his favorite chair to watch television. Brenda, 34, went to the kitchen to make coffee.

Gordon fell asleep. Brenda felt unwell and wondered why. She decided to slip out of the house and call at the local hospital.

She didn't wake Gordon "because I didn't want to worry him."

Gordon, meanwhile, woke up wondering where his coffee was. It wasn't in the kitchen—neither was his wife. He called police, who traced Brenda to Glenford Hospital half a mile away, where nurses were delivering a 6-pound baby boy.

Grocers' Group Names Lewis As President

Glenn Lewis was installed as president of the Sedalia Independent Retail Grocers Association at the annual Christmas party held Dec. 21, at Flat Creek Inn.

Sen. John Ryan installed Lewis and also the following officers for the year who will serve with him: James Dick, vice-president; Frank Henderson, treasurer; and Ernest Goldsmith, sergeant at arms. Virgil Corson, Guy Robinson and Joe Rains, were elected directors for one term and Fred Evans, Bud Greer and Leonard Corson for a two-year terms with William Dick, chairman.

A smorgasbord dinner preceded the program, with invocation by the Rev. William Lusk, rector of Calvary Episcopal Church, who also brought the Christmas message in the form of two stories.

William C. Dick, president, presided over the meeting.

Entertainment was provided by The Notables — Jim Edwards, John Swezy, Ed Woodrel and Roylee Peters.

Glenn Lewis introduced Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Fredrickson. Fredrickson, who is with Olin Mathieson, spoke breifly, stating that big companies, like his, are examing operations of small companies, feeling that some of the things done by small companies could be done to advantage in larger companies.

"We salute you who own and operate your own business," he said.

The evening ended with games with R. L. Settles master of ceremonies.

Ex-Missourian Ordered Freed By Rockefeller

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—Lloyd G. Inman, a former resident of Missouri who was convicted on a murder charge in New York state, was ordered freed from prison Friday by Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller.

Inman, 48, was serving a life sentence in Attica State Prison for killing his father-in-law in 1948.

Rockefeller, who acted on the recommendation of the New York Parole Board, said Inman had devoted himself to a program of self-improvement in prison and had become a qualified electrician and carpenter.

The governor said Inman would be returned to Missouri and placed under supervision of the Missouri Parole Board.

Inman had come to New York state from his home in Cole Camp, Mo., to marry a woman he had met through a correspondence club. The governor's office said that later, Inman came to believe his wife, the former Gladys Larson, was carrying on an incestuous affair with her father, William Larson, and Inman shot him to death.

Queen With Attendants

Miss Kathy Fischer, upper left, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Fischer, 1610 West Tenth, was recently elected the 1967-68 Mizpah Queen of Sacred Heart High School. Kathy is a senior this year. The junior attendant is Miss Martha Karigan, upper right, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Karigan, 1842 South Beacon. The sophomore attendant is Miss Janet Mergen, lower left, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Francis Mergen, Route 4, and the freshman attendant is Miss Genie Herrick, lower right, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Warren Herrick, 1412 South Moniteau. These girls will reign over the Mizpah Christmas Ball, Dec. 27.

In Ranks

Sgt. Ray L. Davis, U.S.A.F. recently spent a 30 day furlough with his mother, Mrs. E. H. Davis, 1606 South Osage, after completing a 12 month tour of duty with Medical Corps on a small island near Okinawa.

He is now stationed at Brooks AFB Research Center in San Antonio, Tex., where he has been assigned to work in a laboratory.

OBITUARIES

Kathryn Zimmerman

CALIFORNIA—Mrs. Kathryn Christina Zimmerman, 84, California, died at 4 p.m. Friday at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Sam Ziehmer, where she had made her home for the past three and a half years. She had been in failing health for about five years.

She was born July 19, 1883, near Jamestown, daughter of the late John and Caroline Griesback Baer. In September of 1903 she was married to Charles William Zimmerman. He preceded her in death in 1930.

Mrs. Zimmerman was a member of the Moniteau United Church of Christ and the ladies guild of the church.

Surviving are one son, George Zimmerman, El Cajon, Calif.; four daughters, Mrs. Arthur Gerlach, Mrs. Oscar Kunze, Mrs. John Ziehmer, Mrs. Sam Ziehmer, all of California; three brothers, J. C. Baer, Frank Baer, Phillip Baer, all of Jamestown; 12 grandchildren; 20 great grandchildren.

Besides her husband, Mrs. Zimmerman, was preceded in death by one infant son and a son Tehodore who died in 1960.

tribute to the late Prime Minister Harold E. Holt.

The tightest security cloaked Johnson's arrival at Camh Ranh, as it had in October, 1966, when he took advantage of the Manila summit conference for his first secret trip to this base on the South China Sea. Johnson's jet was well outside the war zone before the news was released.

Cam Ranh had been chosen by the U.S. commander, Gen. William C. Westmoreland, as the safest base for the President to visit.

The American-built field at Cam Ranh is in one of the South Vietnam's most secure areas. The runway points seaward, allowing landings and take-offs without risking the sniper fire that occasionally harasses aircraft at almost all the other fields.

While the President was on the base, its gates were closed, and no one was allowed to enter or leave. Only priority military radio and telephone links were kept open. Infantry patrols fanned far around the base just in case the word had slipped out to the Viet Cong.

As it was, the President moved in and out without a bobble. Even some of the servicemen assembled at Cam Ranh did not know what they were there for until Johnson appeared.

A composite combat unit had been made up of all American groups in Vietnam—Army, Navy, Marines, Air Force and Coast Guard.

authorities refused passes to West Berliners wanting to cross the Red Wall laden with gifts for relatives in East Berlin. The only passes were issued to a few hardship cases.

After discussing peace in Vietnam with Pope Paul in Vatican City, President Johnson hoped to be home from his world-girdling trip to spend Christmas eve in the White House with his entire family gathered about him.

As do most American families, the White House had a Christmas tree, a five-foot Norway spruce standing on the spot where President Benjamin Harrison placed the first White House Christmas tree in 1889.

For many Americans, it will be a white Christmas, with snow storms swirling out of the Midwest to the Atlantic seaboard. Snow fell as far south as North Carolina.

The snow and ice increased the hazards of holiday travel for Americans. The National Safety Council estimated that 625- 725 persons would be killed on streets and highways in the Christmas holiday period that will end at midnight Monday.

In Britain and on the European continent, stores staggered under the onslaught of a last-minute Christmas shopping spree. British European Airways ran 40 extra flights out of London for holiday makers. Most Britons headed for Scottish ski slopes, to Switzerland, or to the warmer climates of Malta in the Mediterranean and Spain.

In South America, where it is summer, the bang of firecrackers heralded the arrival of the Christmas season and there was a carnival air in most cities and towns.

Bulletin

SASEBO Japan (AP) — Fire broke out aboard the 38,000-ton U.S. Aircraft Carrier Kearsarge here Saturday soon after its arrival from Vietnam to observe the Christmas holidays. Three crewmen were reported killed and two others were injured.

U.S. Navy authorities said the fire started about 3:35 p.m. and was quickly brought under control.

A spokesman said the Kearsarge pulled into the port from Vietnam with six U.S. Destroyers and a tanker for the Christmas holidays.

None of the victims was identified immediately.

peace among all nations of the earth."

"We talked about various methods of obtaining peace in the world," he said. "It was a good meeting and I hope it bears fruit."

Johnson raised with Pope Paul the question of treatment of U.S. war prisoners in North Vietnam.

"I discussed with His Holiness the plight of the American prisoners being held by the North Vietnamese and being denied the rights required by international standards," he said.

The President said he and the pontiff had also reviewed measures to combat hunger in the world.

The President came to the Vatican just 24 hours after the 70-year-old pontiff had pleaded again for the United States to cease bombings in Vietnam and had offered himself as a peace mediator between Washington and Hanoi.

Until his jet plane, Air Force One, actually arrived at Rome's Ciampino airport the unannounced Johnson visit here was kept secret.

But rumors of Johnson's visit had leaked out and as the President arrived, Communist demonstrators chanting anti-American slogans caused a massive traffic snarl near the U.S. Embassy in the heart of Rome.

The visit took place with all the split-second timing and thrilling color of a brilliantly managed stage production.

Johnson stepped from his plane into a waiting U.S. Navy helicopter and was promptly whisked to the country estate of Italian President Giuseppe Saragat at Castel Porziano, just south of Rome, for a 20-minute courtesy call.

The two heads of state conferred with Premier Aldo Moro and Foreign Minister Amintore Fanfani. Sources said they made a quick, general review of the world situation.

Johnson told the Italian leaders, the sources said, that the various suspensions of American bombing of North Vietnam had never met with any response for peace from Hanoi.

Books Were More Than Knowledge Storehouses

WEST PLAINS, Mo. (AP) — A store manager discovered three 10-year-old boys using books for something more than information.

He observed them picking up candy and gum and putting the pieces inside a hollowed-out place in the books.

He confiscated the books and sent the boys on their way. One volume bore the title "The Long Road to Success."

Knox spent most of Sunday peering 100 yards away at Camp Guezo where the new military leaders were meeting. Cars roared in an out and the ambassador said he hoped the new government wouldn't exhaust its monthly gasoline allotment and ask the embassy to provide fuel.

But the new government has bigger problems than gasoline. The leadership must deal with France and still the demands of labor leaders who saw the unrest as a good opportunity to press for restoration of 25 per cent salary cuts and more liberal state allotments.

It seemed unlikely France would increase its $18 million annual subsidy and provide more money to the regime that tossed out Soglo. In Paris, Soglo said he was there on agreement of Dahomey officials to gain assurances of continued French aid to the country.

Dr. Emile Derlin Zinsou, an experienced politician who refused to continue as foreign minister under the new regime, has said that Dahomey might be better off to return to the colonial status it shed with nearly two dozen other countries in 1960.

"But who would have us?" he asked.

Tell Of Pensions Paid To Veterans

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The St. Louis regional office of the Veterans Administration said Saturday $112.4 million in pensions and compensations was paid to 114,500 Missouri veterans or their relatives during 1967.

P. S. Pollack, regional manager, said the VA spent an estimated $169.6 million for all purposes in the state.

Santa Is Surprise To All But One

WEST PLAINS, Mo. (AP) — Bob Gaddis, a store manager, was asked to help out at a neighborhood children's party and be Santa Claus.

So dressed in red and white, with his long white beard flowing, he didn't bother to knock when he arrived at the party.

All of the children, their faces full of cake and ice cream, looked up in surprise—all but one.

"Daddy, what are you doing here?"

It was Gaddis' 4-year-old son, Robert.

Gale Uncovers Gold

MOSCOW (AP) — Tass reported a gale in Soviet Lithuania uprooted an apple tree and uncovered a buried treasure of gold coins including some minted in the United States in 1824. The news agency said the discovery was made by school children at Kaunas but did not estimate the value or speculate on how the U.S. coins got there.

KOTA KINABALU, Malaysia (AP) — The capital of the Malaysian north Borneo state of Sabah changed its name Friday from Jesselton to Kota Kinabalu for Sabah's 14,555-ft. Mt. Chief Minister Tun Mustapha bin Datu Harun told the legislature the mountain stood for the aspirations of the people and Jesselton, named for a British empire-bukilder named Sirp George Jessel, represented the old colonialism.

Vise Is an Extra Pair Of Hands in Workshop

By MR. FIX

No home workshop is really well-equipped unless it has a vise. This is a basic tool. It is absolutely essential in any job where material must be firmly held while working on it.

It is an extra hand when you need both your hands for handling a tool.

Vises are widely available in a variety of sizes and types and in a wide range of prices. They work on similar principles, however, regardless of type. There is a movable jaw and a fixed jaw. The movable jaw is manipulated by a handle which tightens it or releases it in relation to the fixed jaw. The handle is at the end of a threaded steel shaft.

With a few exceptions most vises are mounted on a solid surface, generally the workbench. This is done by bolting, clamping or screwing to the surface to provide a firm mounting.

The kind you are likeliest to buy is the machinist's vise. This is a utility vise that will fill most needs. It has steel jaws generally varying in width from 3½ to 4 inches. The opening between jaws will vary from 3 to 6 inches.

There are a few other features you are likely to find on a machinist's vise. Generally there is a flat anvil base back of the fixed jaw. Use this for hammering and bending.

Most models have a swivel base. You can turn the vise in any direction and lock it in place.

Below the flat surface of each jaw you are likely to find a second surface, half round and corrugated. Together the surfaces form pipe jaws which will grip a piece of pipe securely without smashing it as flat jaws would. This feature is important if you have to cut a length of pipe.

When you mount a machinists' vice place it on one corner of the bench so that the face of the fixed jaw is slightly forward of the edge of the bench. This will permit clearance for objects that project downward.

A woodworker's vise is preferred if you do much carpentry. This type is not fastened to the top of the bench. It is mounted on the front of the bench so that the top edge of the fixed jaw is flush with the top of the bench.

Jaws on such a vise are larger; 3 to 6 inches to 4 by 10 inches. The jaws are of smooth steel with holes provided so that the jaws can be lined with pieces of wood to protect the material you are working on.

Both types of vises are available in clamp-on models where portability is needed. These can be mounted on a saw horse or a tabletop.

Any vise must be mounted securely so that it doesn't wobble. Tighten only with the regular handle. Do not apply extra leverage by extending the handle with a length of pipe or by pounding on the handle.

Keep jaws clean, free of rust, and smooth. Line with wood or other soft materials whenever the work must be protected.

Installation Of Officers Held Dec. 19

The installation of 1968 Officers for Sedalia Assembly No. 23, Social Order of the Beauceant, and for St. Omer Commandery No. 11, Knights Templar, was held Dec. 19 at the Masonic Temple.

The meeting opened with the entrance of Sir Knights in their Commandery uniforms and Ladies in their white robes. They stood at attention on the north and south sides of the room while the American Flag was presented by Sir Knight Joe Smetana. Escorts were Sir Knights Thomas W. Aulgur and Lloyd Kirkpatrick. Tribute to the flag was given by Sir Knight Smetana.

The traditional drill was then given by the Ladies and Sir Knights, with "The Old Rugged Cross" being played during the cross formation.

Mrs. E. H. Williams, outgoing president of Sedalia Assembly No. 23 of the Beauceant, extended a welcome to all present, and then introduced Mrs. J. H. Gwinn, past president, who served as installing officer for the Beauceant officers. Mrs. Gwinn then introduced the other installing officers, who were Mrs. W. Z. Heady, marshal, Mrs. Lloyd Kirkpatrick, assistant marshal, Mrs. Frank Kerswell, chaplain, Mrs. J. E. Downey, director of music, Mrs. Henry Niemann, standard bearer, and Mrs. Lee Thomas, color bearer.

Mrs. Virgil Ragar was installed as worthy president. Other officers installed were Oracle, Mrs. E. H. Williams; first vice president, Mrs. George F. Chambers; second vice president, Mrs. O. C. Blankenship; preceptress, Mrs. Charlie Pahlow; recorder, Mrs. William L. Reed; treasurer, Mrs. Linden L. Jones; marshal, Mrs. Floyd Knerl; assistant marshall, Mrs. William Williams; chaplain, Mrs. E. L. Hall; director of music, Mrs. B. B. Bess; standard bearer, Mrs. Ray Brueckner; color bearer, Mrs. Lester Raines; Mistress of the wardrobe, Mrs. George Titsworth; daughter of the household, Mrs. Porter Morton; inner guard, Mrs. James Raine. Mrs. Rex Warren, who was appointed outer guard, was unable to be present to be installed.

Mrs. Ragar's daughters, Mrs. Shirley Bergmann and Mrs. Janet Steen, sang to her, "Always"; a gift from the assembly, and their pledge of co-operation and good wishes, was given to her by Mrs. William Reed, past president, and a corsage from her family was presented by her granddaughter, little Marjorie Steen. Mrs. Ragar expressed her appreciation and said the motto of the year, "Nothing Without God," would be her guide for a year of friendship and harmony. She then introduced the members of her family, and her son Stanley Ragar expressed her family's pride in her and extended their good wishes.

Mrs. Ragar recognized Mrs. Howard Gwinn, vice president of the Missouri Associaton of the Social Order of the Beauceant, Eminent Sir Knight Howard Gwinn, Commander of St. Omer Commandery No. 11, Knights Templar, and Sir Knight Ralph Cook, commander elect.

Mrs. E. H. Willisms, junior past president, was escorted into the circle of past presidents by Mrs. J. H. Gwinn and presented her past president's jewel by Mrs. Henry Niemann, president of the Sedalia Assembly Past Presidents Club.

Following the installation of the Beauceant Officers, the officers of St. Omer Commandery were installed, with Right Eminent Sir Harold N. Painter serving as Installing Commander, Eminent Sir Floyd G. Knerl Installing Marshal, and Eminent Sir Don McQueen, Installing Prelate. The officers installed were as follows:

Commander, Ralph H. Cook; generalissimo, Jack Chambers; captain general, Robert Chambers; senior warden, Alvin E. Beale; junior warden, Huebert Hull; prelate, Howard J. Gwinn; treasurer, Don McQueen; recorder, W. L. Reed; standard Bearer, Perry Wolkey; sword bearer, James E. Raine; warder, Robert Johnston; sentinel, Albert L. Anderson III.

Eminent Sir J. H. Gwinn presented the outgoing commander, Howard J. Gwinn, with his shoulder straps, and Don McQueen presented the newly installed Commander with his emblems.

Following the installation of officers, a reception was held in the dining room, commemorating the 46th anniversary of the constituting of Sedalia Ussembly No. 23 of the Beauceant, with Mrs. Howard Gwinn and Mrs. Harold Painter serving at the reception table.

Gremlins Chalk Up Tenth Season Win

Sport Scraps

By D. Kelly Scruton

YEP, the list was completed. Believe it or not it was fulfilled nine days before my usual Xmas shopping spree.

It nearly gave some of my friends downtown a stroke when I walked in and said "wrap it up" the usual. All the endeavors of one man to sell a large handbag fell on deaf ears. Another said, "Scruton, you are too easy to satisfy."

But nevertheless these past 12 months have flown much, much too fast. Seems only a week or so ago I was saying I'll be writing 365 days from now, but they went so fast I wonder if the next 366 days will go as fast.

It is much the same this year as it was last. Old Santa just had a tough time figuring out what to give me. Old "smarty" me always looking for those bargains, has resulted in almost an elimination of gifts. Maybe he'll out-smart me and come through with something like a box of cigars.

WELL anyway, as I said before, it's only 366 days away to Christmas 1968 so here's

Wishing All You Sports Fans

A Merry Christmas

Sincerely,

D. Kelly Scruton,
Sports Editor.

Salisbury Is Victim Of Gremlins

The Sacred Heart Gremlins racked up their tenth victory of the season against only three losses Friday night as they dealt St. Joseph's of Salisbury a 60-52 defeat at the Sacred Heart Gymnasium.

The two teams played it close for three quarters. The Gremlins overcame Salisbury's one-point first quarter lead, 12-11, to take a two-point margin at halftime. The visitors came back, though, in the third period to tie the game at 41-all.

A burst of scoring in the final stanza gave the nod to Sacred Heart as they ran past their opponents, scoring 19 points and allowing 11.

Tom Tray of S-H shared game scoring honors with John Roeschl of Salisbury, both of whom scored 17 points. Tim Hogan bolstered Tray's effort, and Gary Stallman helped out Roeschl, both getting 14 markers.

Eddie Gonser scored 12 points to the Sacred Heart 'B' team to victory, 31-28. Rick Thies had 16 for the losers.

Score by quarters:

Benefit Wrestling Scheduled

The 1968 benefit wrestling show, sponsored by the Pettis County Post No. 16, American Legion, for the Children's Therapy Center is scheduled for Tuesday night Jan. 2 at Convention Hall, Liberty Park.

For eight years the Legion has sponsored this show and in that many years has presented the Children's Therapy Center more than $4,750. The proceeds in 1966 were $600 and in January of 1967 the proceeds reached the tidy sum of $705.

Joe Toler, chairman of the committee on wrestling for the Legion, said this past week he was hoping the ticket sale would exceed those of 1967. Many of the Legion members have ben given tickets to see for the matches and with good weather for that night of Jan. 2nd, attendance should be bigger than ever.

Form Plans For Friends Of Soccer

Plans yesterday were released on the forming of a Friends of Soccer Committee for the promotion of top flight soccer games in Sedalia.

Gary Cooper, Executive Manager for the Sedalia Chamber of Commerce, will head the committee. Committee members include: Herb Brandes, KDRO Radio; Dave Winsor, KMOS-TV; Carl Yeates, KSIS Radio; Robert Hausam, Sedalia Khoury Soccer Assn.; Jim Koerner of the Soccer League; and D. Kelly Scurton, of the Sedalia Democrat-Captial.

Mr. Cooper stated that presently the committee is working on the feasability of playing two professional soccer teams here in the spring. Also under investigation is the possibility of several college game promotions in the fall.

The major force behind the committee's work has been the program of the local Khoury Soccer Association, with their tournament program this last fall and the scheduling of the Sedalia Kickers against junior teams from Kansas, Illinois, and the St. Louis Area. Also on their schedule this fall and winter have been college teams from Springfield, Warrensburg and Marshall.

"It is the hope of the committee," stated Cooper," to have some outstanding games brought to Sedalia, so that the more than some 550 soccer players here can have an exposure to the game as played by the best, and to help the local league to realize funds so that their program can be expanded and become first class in caliber."

Presently the committee is searching for guarantors to make such program plans possible.

Australia To Open Defense Of Its Davis Cup Crown

BRISBANE, Australia (AP) — Australia opens defense of the Davis Cup against Spain here Tuesday in what could be the last of the big international tennis series as the world has come to know it.

The British Lawn Tennis Association has announced plans to open the 1968 Wimbledon tournament to professionals, and this could trigger a landslide that might reduce amateur tennis to a club and college level.

Several of the top amateur players, including Australia's John Newcombe and Tony Roche, have announced plans to turn pro after the Challenge Round. Others, such as the top Davis Cup men of the United States, have said they would play at Wimbledon in the face of suspension threats by the International Lawn Tennis Federation.

If Wimbledon's move to open tennis is successful, it may be necessary to change the Davis Cup format.

The Australians, who have won the silver cup for 10 of the last 12 years and the last three times in a row, are heavily favored over a Spanish team that is depending almost wholly on its veteran ace, Manuel Santana.

Santana and 18-year-old Manuel Orantes, an untried junior, will play singles for Spain, probably against Australia's veteran Roy Emerson, making his ninth Challenge Round appearance, and Newcombe, who holds the Wimbledon and U.S. titles.

In doubles, it probably will be Oranges and Luis Arilla against Newcombe and Roche.

The draw will be made Monday for the opening singles and Santana has expressed hope that he will be sent against Newcombe in the opening match.

The United States failed for the third straight year to make the Challenge Round when its team was beaten by little Ecuador in the American Zone final.

Sacred Heart Hosts Contests With Alumni

The Sacred Heart High School Gremlins will host the Alumni and Alumanae in basketball and volleyball games at the Sacred Heart Gym at 1:30 p.m. Sunday Dec. 31st.

The Alumni basketball team will be captained by Chuck Hogan and Mike Maple. They have several "old timers" lined up for the tilt and will accept any volunteers who feel they are in condition to take on the "youngsters."

Miss Evelyn Stohr will be in charge of the Alumnae volleyball team. Miss Storh is also looking for players to participate with several already having answered the call to participate.

John McHale Is Starting Small, Thinking Big

NEW YORK (AP) — John McHale is starting small but thinking big while seeking to help tip the scales of the game of basketball back to the little man.

McHale is the originator of balanced Basketball, an offshoot of the major sport he has systemitized by players' heights. It will be introduced next month for the first time on a full-scale bases in a boys' league in 14 Westchester County, N.Y. towns.

"The game would be so much better if the only criterion was ability, not height," said the 43-year-old former sports columnist for several New Jersey newspapers..

"Under our system, you could have a Wilt Chamberlain on the team, but the other four players would have to be of average height," added McHale, referring to the 7-foot-1 star of Philadelphia's National Basketballl Association team.

Balanced Basketball's most intriguing feature is that players are graded by height from zero to nine units. A five-player lineup may not exceed 25 units.

Players 5-foot-10 or taller count for the maximum nine units. Those 5-9 and 5-8 are eight unit players down to zero for players 4-6 and under.

"I've been to many meetings of college basketball coaches and they're all backing me in the experiement. I got some favorable letters from Adolph Rupp," McHale disclosed while referring to Kentucky's veteran mentor.

"We have about 170 boys and I've already measured each one's height," said McHale, who stands 6-foot-3½. "Later on, we'd like to start men's tournaments and see how they work out.

"I love the game and I can't help thinking how much better it would be with five Bob Cousys on a team instead of all those big guys."

Big Eight Tourney To Open Wednesday In Kansas City

KANSAS CITY (AP) — It's likely to be same song, fourth verse in the 22nd Big Eight basketball tournament opening here Wednesday night.

Despite improvement all around the league, Kansas is favored to win an unprecedented fourth straight tournament crown, all under Coach Ted Owens. He's never lost a tourney game.

Iowa State meets Colorado and Missouri faces Kansas State in the opening first round games Wednesday. The IS-CU game starts at 7 p.m., CST. MU-KS at 9. The starting times are 30 minutes earlier than past years.

The logic in choosing Kansas is impressive. The Jayhawks return four starters from last year, led by Jo Jo White, gifted 6-foot-3 backliner who was voted the tournament's Most Valuable Player last year.

In addition Kansas has added as much new talent as any club, with 6-10 Dave Nash and 6-3 Rich Bradshaw, who scored 21 and 19 in recent victories over Cincinnati and Louisville.

A fourth crown for Owens would tie him with Kansas State's Tex Winter, who has a 31-11 record for 14 previous tournaments.

Kansas opens against Oklahoma State Thursday at 9 p.m., after Nebraska meets Oklahoma. K-State and Iowa State are co-favorites in the upper bracket. Iowa State, tourney runner-up last year, returns 6-8 Don Smith, a 24.3 scorer and 15.7 rebounder, and has added 6-6 rookie Bill Cain, a 16.7 scorer.

Winter is pondering whether to bench 7-1 Nick Pino, inconsistent 270-pounder, and install a go-go attack. His decision may not be revealed until tip-off time against Mizzou.

Every club has at least one important new man and Winter has two, with 6-1 Louie Small his top scorer at 16.9 and 6-7 Eugene Williams his top rebounder at 11.7 grabs a game. Both are junior college transfers.

Oklahoma under new Coach Johnny MacLeod has 6-6 sophomore Garfield Heard, a 10.6 scorer and OU's top rebounder at 11.6. Missouri under new Coach Norm Stewart has 6-4 sophomore Don Tomlinson, a 14.1 scorer.

Nebraska's Joe Cipriano starts two sophomores — 6-2 Tom Scantlebury, a 14.3 scorer, and 6-4 Bob Gratopp, 12.0. Coach Sox Walseth at Colorado is getting top rebounding and 11.5 scoring from 6-4 rookie Mike Coleman. Hank Iba at OSU is getting timely bench help from three rookies.

White and Smith aren't the only outstanding veterans around. Colorado has Pat Frink scoring 22.3 and Chuck Williams 20.5. Oklahoma has 6-8 Don Sidle, scoring 18.7. Nebraska's Stuart Lantz is scoring 18.0 and leads the club in rebounds. Missouri's 6-7 Gene Jones is scoring 17.9 and leads the Tigers with 13 rebounds a game. K-State's 6-7 Earl Seyfert is scoring 16.3. OSU's Joe Smith leads the Cowbovs in scoring at 13.3.

"We're Here But They're There"

Last Monday night the Smith-Cotton eighth and ninth grade basketball teams, coached by Max Field and Wes Sanders, traveled to Jefferson City to play a basketball game or that's what they thought. Little did they know that at the same time the Jefferson City eighth and ninth grade squads were traveling here to play the same game. The game — it wasn't played, of course. But who was right? Both teams probably said they were.

The teams will try again later in the season to get together and make up the game.

Oilers Win Division Crown With A Convincing Victory

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — The Houston Oilers clobbered Miami's ambitious young Dolphins 41-10 Saturday night and became the first team in history to drive from the cellar to the American Football League Eastern Division championship in a single season.

Striking for long gains on the passes of Pete Beathard and the running of Hoyle Granger and Woodie Campbell, the Oilers moved into a 14-3 halftime lead.

They simply overran the Dolphins in the last two quarters.

A defeat would have forced Houston into a division playoff with New York if the Jets beat San Diego Sunday. The Oilers now will play Western champion Oakland Dec. 31 for the AFL crown and a Super Bowl showdown with the National Football League winner at Miami, Fla., Jan. 14.

Campbell ran for two first-half touchdowns; Granger added more in the third quarter o n a 48-yard pass from Beathard and a one-yard run. Ken Houston scored a fifth touchdown with a 30-yard pass interception runback in the fourth.

John Wittenborn completed the rout with 11 points on five conversions and field goals of 29 and 38 yards.

Miami rookie quarterback Bob Griese ran his string of attempted passes without an interception to 122 in the first half, breaking a single season record of 105 by Ed Songin in 1960. But Songin still holds the mark of 128 spanning two seasons.

Ring In New Year

ST. MORITZ, Switzerland (AP) — This fashionable winter resort of 2,500 villagers and about 8,000 yearend holiday visitors, including royalty and jet-setters, will ring in the New Year to the tune of about $90,000 on the telephones. That's the estimated take of the Swiss postoffice on long distance calls "Two-hour chats across the world are quite common," said a hotel director..

FIREMEN SAVED SOX

BOSTON (AP) — Wonder why the Red Sox did so well in the American League race? Despite their lack of depth in starting pitchers, Dick Williams' team did well from the bullpen.

Five of their relief hurlers accounted for 24 saves and 23 victories. John Wyatt, obtained from Kansas City in 1966, got credit for 17 saves and 10 victories in relief for the American League champions.

Jose Santiago, Darrell Brandon, Sparky Lyle and Dan Osinski were the other relief hurlers who helped the Bosox.

HAS ALL THE POINTS

BOSTON (AP) — As Casey Stengel might say, Carl Yastrzemski has all the points. In fact, the popular left fielder of the Boston Red Sox gained 117 points on his 1966 marks.

This year Yaz won the American League triple crown title with 44 home runs, 121 runs batted in and a 326 batting average.

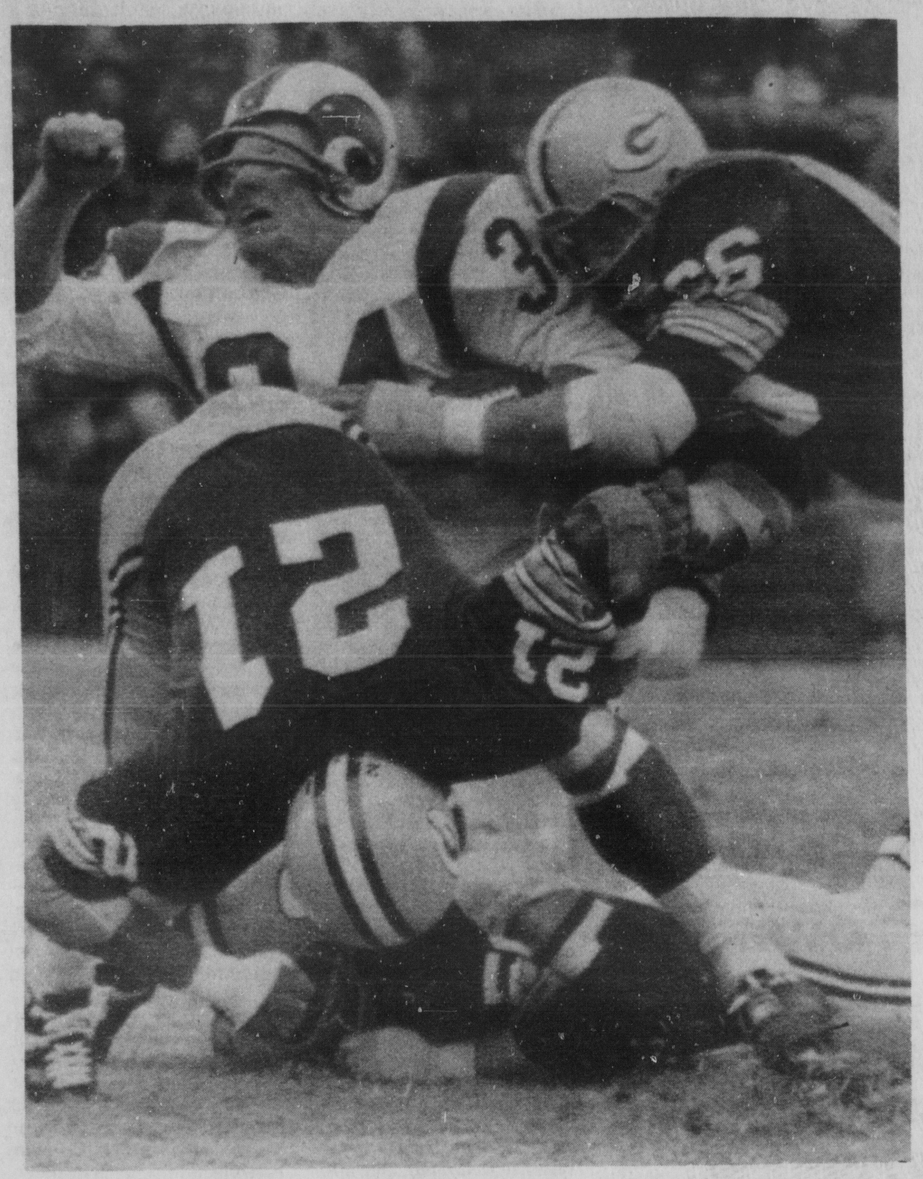
Packers Wipe Out Los Angeles, 28-7



Hit Hard

Milwaukee—The Rams' Les Josephson (34) grimaces as he is hit hard by Packers' Bob Jeter (21) in first quarter of the NFL Western Conference playoff here Saturday. Ray Nitschke (66) also lends a hand in the action. (UPI)

Defense Takes Play To Fearsome Four

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP) — The Green Bay Packers' defense stole the thunder from the famed "Fearsome Foursome" and with help from Bart Starr and the phenomenal Travis Williams humbled the Los Angeles Rams 28-7 to capture the National Football League's Western Conference Championship Saturday.

Starr, given almost impeccable protection by his own offensive line, riddled the proud Rams' defense with passes while Williams, a rookie, scored two touchdowns, one on a 46-yard burst from scrimmage.

But it was the Packers' defense which won for Green Bay a berth in the NFL championship game Dec. 31 against the Eastern Conference Champion to be decided Sunday when Cleveland plays at Dallas.

Led by tackle Henry Jordan and Willie Davis and middle linebacker Ray Nitschke, the Packers time and again savagely stopped Ram thrusts deep into Packer territory.

And despite three fumble recoveries and a pass interception, the Rams were able to score only one touchdown.

"I think we were magnificent today," Packer Coach Vince Lombardi said after the game. "We rose to the occasion. A lot of people said the Packers were dead. But we still have a great nucleus."

Roman Gabriel, who had carried the Cinderella Rams into the playoff by completing 18 of 22 passes against the Baltimore Colts last Sunday, was frustrated by a relentless pass rush.

Jordan was the major source of Gabriel's miseries, but Davis, tackle Ron Kostelnik and end Lionel Aldridge also applied the pressure.

The Rams, who saw their eight-game winning streak and title dreams go up in smoke in the 20-degree cold, drew first blood.

Gabriel teamed with Bernie Casey on a 29-yard touchdown pass play in the first period after Chuck Lamson had recovered a fumble by the Packers' Chuck Mercein at the Rams' 48.

Minutes later, the Rams appeared poised to break the game open as Lamson picked off a Starr pass at the Packer 34 and returned it to the 10. Then, the momentum swung suddenly and savagely to the Packers.

On a third down play from the five, Jordan smote down Gabriel at the 12. The Rams' Bruce Gossett attempted a field goal on fourth down but linebacker Dave Robinson deflected the ball. It was all Green Bay after that.

Yastrzemski Winner Of Ty Cobb Award

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Carl Yastrzemski, flashy Boston Red Sox outfielder, Saturday was named winner of the first annual Ty Cobb Award given by the Atlanta chapter of the Baseball Writers' Association of America as "baseball's most exciting player."

Yastrzemski, who beat out St. Louis Cardinal pitcher Bob Gibson for the award named for the late "Georgia Peach" of the Detroit Tigers, was chosen for his hitting and fielding which carried the Red Sox to the American League crown and into the seventh game of the World Series.

The Red Sox ace batted over .500 the last two weeks of the series in Boston's winning surge, and he won the American League triple crown by batting .326, driving in 121 runs and slamming 44 home runs.

The Ty Cobb award is given to the big league player whose performance was most symbolic of Cobb's exciting play.

Namath Has Chance For Big Record

By The Associated Press

Fractured cheekbone and all, Joe Namath of the New York Jets can become the most prolific passer in one season in pro football history Sunday when the Jets help close the regular American Football League season at San Diego.

In Sunday's only other game Buffalo is at Oakland, the Western Division winner.

Namath, who has had to rely even more on his passing because of injuries to running backs Matt Snell and Emerson Boozer, has thrown for 3,664 yards, already eclipsing the AFL record of 3,465 set by Boston's Babe Parilli in 1964.

If he gets just 84 yards against the Chargers (he's averaged 282 a game), Namath also will pass Sonny Jurgensen of the National League's Washington Redskins, who amassed 3,747 yards this year.

Namath will play despite the injury he suffered against Oakland last Sunday. He has a multiple fracture of the right cheekbone, but a special mask was prepared so he could play.

It is conceivable that the Jets' quarterback also can add a second AFL record by the time the game is over.

If he throws 41 passes and completes at least 23, Namath will surpass a record set by George Blanda with Houston in 1964.

In offering Oakland a tune-up for the championship game next week, Buffalo winds up the worst season it's ever had. Even if last season's Eastern titlist hands the Raiders only their second loss, the Bills' record would be 5-9.

The Raiders have enjoyed their best season. Their best previous record was 10-4 in 1963, and last season they were 8-5-1.

Oakland has the league's top passer, Daryle Lamonica, and the top scorer, Blanda. The 38-year-old Blanda has clinched the scoring title because he has 112 points, and his closest competitors, Jan Stenerud of Kansas City and Boston's Gino Cappelletti, have finished their seasons.

Denver also has concluded its season, and Miami wound up at home against Houston Saturday night.

Jim Ryun Is Named To AAU All-Star Team

NEW YORK (AP) — Miler Jim Ryun and 220-yard ace Tommie Smith were among those named Saturday by the Amateur Athletic Union to the 1967 men's All-America track and field team.

Two athletes were selected in each of 26 events by the National AAU Track and Field Committee.

Jim Hines of Texas Southern was the only one chose for three events. He was picked for the 60-, 100- and 220-yard dashes.

Three others were chosen in two categories. They were Willie Davenport of Southern University for the 60- and 120-yard hurdles and Ed Burke of the California Striders and George Freen of the Pasadena Athletic Association, both for the hammer and 35-pound weight.

Another Bluebonnet Upset By Colorado

Winners Come From Behind Two Times

HOUSTON (AP) — Bob Anderson, an injured but brilliant quarterback, made two touchdowns Saturday to pull Colorado from behind twice in the second half as the underdog Buffs scored a 31-21 Bluebonnet Bowl victory over the Miami Hurricanes from Florida.

An ankle injury had prevented Anderson from starting the game but the 200-pounder operated smoothly while directing the pair of 80-yard second half surges.

Anderson ended the first by powering over from the two and capped the second with a spectacular 38-yard touchdown scamper.

In between the two long Colorado drives, Bill Miller, a reserve quarterback, had come off the Miami bench to engineer an 85-yard drive that gave the Hurricanes a brief 21-17 lead. Miller passed nine yards to Jerry Daanan in the end zone on the first play of the fourth period.

Just seconds after Anderson's 38-yard run had regained the lead at 24-21, Colorado snuffed out Miami's final hopes with an interception at the Hurricane 34. Eight plays later, Wilmer Cooks, the short yardage specialist from Dallas, Tex., bulled over from the two for the final touchdown.

Anderson did not enter the game until late in the third period but netted 108 yards in 17 carries and completed five of 10 passes for 49. The performance earned him a near unanimous vote as the game's most outstanding back.

Anderson gave credit for his great showing to the offensive line "who really wiped those guys out."

"I just couldn't believe it," he said. "I'm just happy."

Eddie Crowder, the Colorado head coach, said he had planned to play both Anderson and Dan Kelly at quarterback about one-half the time.

"I was reluctant to start Bob today because Kelly had been practicing so well and had really earned the assignment," he said.

Downcast but still chattering at his lightning clip, Miami Coach Charlie Tate said Anderson's entrance made the difference in the game.

"Colorado didn't do anything we thought it was impossible to do," Tate said. "They did what we expected but better. Anderson was the difference—devastating in his running."

Crowder said it was a great bowl game because the momentum kept changing.

"The game must have changed completely at least four times," the former Oklahoma star said.

Tate defended the choice of a field goal attempt on a fourth and one situation at Colorado's 18 midway through the fourth.

Packers Were 'Magnificent In Lombardi's Appraisal

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP) — Jubuliant Green Bay Coach Vince Lombardi said it all after his Packers had whipped Los Angeles 28-7 Saturday and captured the Western Conference title in the National Football League.

"We were magnificent today," the usually dour Lombardi enthused. "We rose to the occasion. A lot of people said the Packers were dead.

"But we still have a great nucleus."

The aging but peerless Packers gave quarterback Bar Starr almost perfect protection and unleashed a remorseless rush on the Rams' Roman Gabriel to gain a berth in the NFL title game Dec. 31 at Green Bay.

"Never mind the 'Fearsome Foursome.' We've got our 'Fearsome Onesome,' " shouted Ron Kostelnik in a salute to teammate Henry Jordan, who tormented Gabriel throughout the long, cold afternoon.

"I'm just a wee, little fellow," joked Jordan, a balding veteran of 32. Henry dropped Gabriel four times. He shared individual glory with Starr, Ray Nitschke and the phenomenal rookie Travis Williams.

"The only factor was the Packers," said Ram Coach George Allen.

"They deserved to win, they were hitting hard and were just a better team."

Jordan, Willie Davis and Nitschke led the defensive charge that held the Rams to one touchdown despite three fumble recoveries and a pass interception.

And veterans Forrest Gregg, Bob Skoronski and Jerry Kramer and relative newcomer Gale Gillingham and Bob Hyland did the blocking that left the Rams' famed front four in the shade.

"We felt Bart needed a little protection," said Skoronski, the offensive captain. Starr was nailed only once for a loss while attempting to pass.

Starr and Williams accounted for three of the four Packer touchdowns. Starr passed 17 yards to Carroll Dale for one, and Williams ran 46 and two yards for two more scores.

The only Los Angeles touchdown came on a 29-yard pass from Gabriel to Bernie Casey in the first period.

The Packer front four had been in a slump in the three weeks since the Packers clinched Central Division honors. Davis was particularly unhappy with himself.

In a 27-24 loss to the Rams two weeks ago, Davis' opponent, tackle Charlie Cowan, won the game ball.

"I had to come back," said Davis. "I couldn't have lived with myself if I didn't."

"What do you say?" asked Kramer. "It was just beautiful."

Cowboys Seeking Goal That Eluded Them Last Season

DALLAS (AP)—Tne Dallas Cowboys, who lacked just two yards of possibly winning the National Football League championship last year, take what they hope will be the first step toward that goal here Sunday when they meet the Cleveland Browns.

It is the playoff for the Eastern Conference championship, this time with the last of division leaders—Dallas of the Capitol and the Browns of the Century.

Ahead will be the playoff with the Western Conference champion, Green Bay, a 28-7 victory over the Los Angeles Rams Saturday.

Dallas and Cleveland each have a 9-5 record and each has shown its hills and valleys, looking very bad at times, very good at other times.

And each seemed able to get fired up at just the right time, when it had to win.

And both are due to be really fired up for this one, each thinking about the championship and to disapprove mutterings from the other divisions that here is mediocrity.

Dallas beat Cleveland 21-14 in its opening league game. And the Cowboys won two before taking a hammering from Los Angeles. On the other hand, Cleveland started out by losing two in a row, then rallying to win four. From then on it was much like a seesaw for both clubs.

The Browns are the best team on the ground in the NFL, averaging 152.8 yards per game and featuring the pounding runs of Leroy Kelly, who led the league in rushing with 1,205 yards, and Ernie Green, who racked up 710 between injuries.

Dallas tops the league in defense against rushing, allowing a piddling 77.2.

Neither has done well at passing, this attributed to injuries that have handicapped the two quarterbacks—Don Meredith of Dallas and Frank Ryan of Cleveland.

Perfect Records Will Be On Line

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — North-South football coaches Chalmers "Bump" Elliott of Michigan and Johnny Bridgers of Baylor, neither of whom has lost in the annual charity football game, come to a showdown here Monday.

Elliott's Yankee squad of 29 players from 17 colleges, including four from Michigan and three from Michigan State, sweltered in the unaccustomed 80-degree Florida heat all week as Elliott welded them into a team.

Bridgers' Rebels—29 men from 19 colleges including two from Baylor—adapted quickly to the heat but had to press an emergency back into service to play the hole caused by the rib injury of Florida's Richard Trapp. Mike Perrilaird of Auburn, a versatile back, was selected.

Kickoff for the nationally televised game (ABC) is 2:15 p.m. (EST).

The game is the 22nd annual edition of the Mahi Shrine North-South game with all proceeds earmarked for the Variety Children's Hospital in Miama. Last year the game produced $90,624.52 for the hospital and a mark of $100,000 was expected for this year's battle in the Orange Bowl.

Elliott coached North victories in 1959 and 1960. Bridgers was the sidelines boss in 1961 when the South won.

Andy Gustafson, athletic director at the University of Miami is game director and selects the talent.

"There is more outstanding pro talent among the 197 North and South teams than in previous Shrine ames," Gustafson said. "You can be assured of one thing; many of the players in this game will go in the first pro draft round."

Player Rises From Floor, Wins Game

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) — John Howard got up from the floor and scored the winning basket in the last two seconds Saturday night as Cincinnati downed Dayton 71-70 for third place in the University of Kentucky Invitational Tournament.

Cincinnati trailed by one point with six seconds left when Howard was knocked to the floor during a scramble for a rebound after Jerry Gottschall missed a free throw.

The Bearcats called time out while Howard got his wind, then let him have the final shot, which he hit from the middle of the free throw circle.

Howard paced the Cincinnati attack with 24 points. Don May led Dayton scoring with 17 points.

DENVER IS DEEP

DENVER (AP) — The University of Denver basketball team will have a deep backcourt group in action this season. Coach Troy Bledsoe is working with six candidates who can run, shoot and play defense.

Heading the list is 6-3 senior Harry Hollines who has rewritten 16 Pioneer records while averaging 26.1 points a game the last two seasons.

Horace Kearney, a 5-10 sophomore star, and Rick Callahan, 6-3 from Galesburg, Ill., are other highly regarded prospects. Other backcourtmen are Keith Strohman, soph Doug Funk and Tim Waters from Phoenix, Ariz.

Illinois has never beaten Notre Dame in football. They have met 11 times. In 1937 they played a scoreless tie.

California Tourney Is Scheduled

The thirty-fourth annual California invitational basketball tourney will be held Jan. 8 through Jan. 13, 1968.

Those competing in the tournament are California, Boonville, Fatima of Westphalia, Camdenton, Linn, University High of Columbia, Smithton and Glasgow.

Boonville is seeded in first place in the tourney with Glasgow second, California third, and Fatima fourth.

The first round will see Boonville vs. Smithton and California vs. Linn Jan. 8, with Fatima vs. University High and Glasgow vs. Camdenton Jan. 9.

The referees for the tournament are Jim Rackers, Gary Cain and Bill Clark.

The Chicago White Sox, fourth place finishers in the 1967 American League flag race, drew the most fans to Tiger Stadium in Detroit this year. With seven playing dates (nine games) in the Motor City the White Sox played before 216,007 fans.

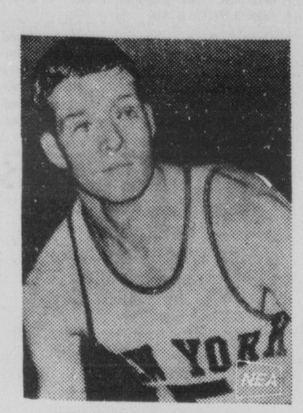
Van Arsdale Twins: Look-Alikes and 'Play-Alikes'



DICK VAN ARSDALE

By TOMMY THOMAS
NEA Sports Writer

NEW YORK — (NEA) — You remember Dick Van Arsdale. He's the former Indiana All-American. He's a 6-5, 24-year-old, has a shock of blond hair and is a professional basketball star.

You probably remember Tom Van Arsdale, too. He's the former Indiana All-American. He's a 6-5, 24-year-old, has a shock of blond hair and is also a pro basketball star.

The Van Arsdale twins are a family success story in the NBA. Tom plays guard at Detroit and last year was the Pistons' leading foul-shooter with a 78 per cent average.

Dick, a forward for New York, is considered the Knicks' top defensive player and usually draws assignments against the league's top scorers. He considers Cincinnati's Jerry Lucas and Detroit's Dave DeBusschere among the toughest to guard, along with Boston's John Havlicek whom he considers most rugged in the clutch.

As for when the Knicks play Detroit, Tom and Dick don't guard each other except when they must switch off.

"We really don't like to play against each other individually," says Dick. "We seldom say anything during a game. When we do get together we have a good time, though, and that's fairly often. We're both in the Indiana National Guard and we're in the same towns a lot because of the many doubleheaders we play."

The Van Arsdales are originally from Greenwood, Ind., but now live in the cities they play for.

The Knicks got off to a slow start this season, losing six straight. However, last week they started a winning streak and one of the victories was over Boston.

"This is my third year with New York," Dick said after the game, "and the first time we've beaten the Celtics in a regular-season game since I've been on the team."

Dick thinks the win over Boston could have started the momentum to carry the Knicks to more winning streaks.

"I guess you could say we're both shooting for third place in our division," he adds. "Realistically, we think that's about how good we are. Boston and Philadelphia are naturally the best. By the end of the season we could be tough in the playoffs."

The guys they'll apparently have to beat out for third are Tom and the Pistons. The Knicks have dropped two contests to Detroit this season.

Getting the Van Arsdales mixed up in a game would be easy enough and Dick says that's not the only place.

"When both of us are in the same town people usually get us mixed up on the street. We're used to it by now."

Dick adds that even though they have the same characteristics and are alike in many ways that they don't lead the same kind of life.

"Yeah," said Dick, "Tom's not married."

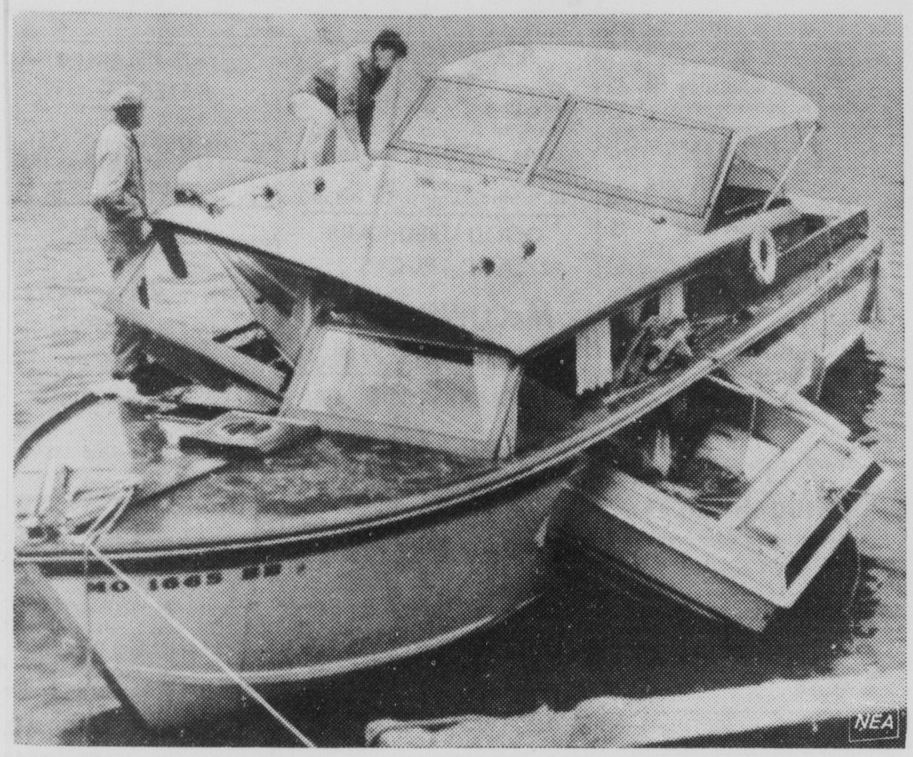
Caution to All Boatmen

Steer Clear and Stay Alive



DROPPING IN or just passing through? This 16-foot runabout plowed through a cabin cruiser recently. The Coast Guard now ranks collisions as the leading cause of boat casualties.

By WM. T. McKEOWN
NEA Boating Writer

"Boats don't cause accidents, but boatmen do," the Coast Guard officer said. "Don't use my name but most accidents on the water this year were caused by stupid carelessness."

Official Coast Guard evaluations, just released, seem to say much the same thing. More than 50 per cent of this past summer's boating accidents were collisions. Most did not involve right of way. They were caused by operator error —a Coast Guard term which means the idiot steering did not look where he was going.

Sometimes this happens when a driver keeps looking back at water skiers bouncing along behind. Or he may let all his passengers sit in back of the boat. Then the front end he calls the bow will point so high he never can get the boat going fast enough to level out and let him see where he is going. So he plows through channel markers, buoys, logs, rocks, sandbars, swimmers and other craft.

Some owners roar out of a slip or around the bend in the river and onto other boatmen. Sometimes broadside, sometimes head-on. Big freighters that can't top 10 knots always station a lookout. But runabout jockeys doing 30 don't even look around.

Next largest cause of accidents, the Coast Guard reports, involves boatmen who put too many passengers in their boats and hang on too much horsepower. A skiff with seat space for 10 may be overloaded with five in flat water on a calm day. Then when a big boat passes, its wake rolls out and into the smaller boat. And 78 per cent of 1966 drowning victims had life preservers along but didn't use them.

"Ever since we've been requiring accident reports the last few years, we've learned a lot," the Coast Guardman reported. "But it turns out a boatman doesn't need to know everything. Nautical skills and seamanship are helpful, but the use of common sense usually can keep him alive."

NEARLY 20 YEARS LATER

LOUISVILLE (AP) — A billfold stolen 19½ years ago turned up recently when an auto crashed into the bus station at nearby Ft. Knox. It had lain sealed in the wall of the terminal all that time.

When workmen began repairing the damage, they found the wallet with several cards identifying the owner as Gerald Rians of Peoria, Ill.

Bus officials located Rians who claimed the wallet, explaining that it had been taken off him by robbers one night while he was stationed at Ft. Knox.

The bandits, after looting the billfold, apparently punched a hole in the bus station wall and dumped the billfold into it.

BLACK MEANS STARDOM

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Defenders Ken Criter and Tom Domres of the Wisconsin football team wore black helmets when they played Michigan State here. All the other Badgers wore red helmets.

Wisconsin coach John Coatta awards black helmets to players who star. Criter and Domres wore the helmets as a result of their play in the 17-0 loss to Washington in their opener. Against State, Wisconsin bowed 35-7.

News Briefs

MINERAL SPRINGS, N.C. (AP) — The Mineral Springs Parent-Teacher Association will play Santa and pay $2,050 in salary supplements for the town's 12 elementary school teachers and principal next year.

The 150-member PTA volunteered to foot the bill after Union County voters rejected a countywide referendum proposing a tax increase to finance teacher salary supplements.

"It's the first time I've seen this happen. . .where the parents raise the money themselves," said Harold Funderburk, an assistant county school superintendent. "I hope other PTAs catch on."

Willie Starnes, president of the Mineral Springs PTA, said the association will provide annual supplements of $150 for the 12 teachers and $250 for the principal.

CARRIER BOY APPLICATIONS ARE BEING ACCEPTED

The Sedalia Democrat has route openings from time to time and in order for you to be considered we should have your application on file.
We have an opening for carriers at the present time.
Our carriers operate their routes for themselves, do their own selling, collecting, delivering and make a profit as an independent merchant.
They receive valuable business training as well as money from their routes.

Yuletide Cheer at Bothwell Hospital

By Patrick Clark

Thoughts of Christmas usually bring to mind visions of opening presents with the family on Christmas morning, and later sitting down to a huge Christmas dinner at home with the family. But all too often, being at home is a near impossibility for some, such as those at Bothwell Hospital. For the patients unable to go home for the year's most celebrated holiday, however, the hospital takes special steps to bring a little joy to the patients.

Bothwell Hospital administrator, the hospital staff makes a special effort on Christmas for the patients. This year for instance, the hospital allows each patient to have one guest for the noon meal of turkey or ham, dressing, vegetables, and pumpkin pie. And thanks to Cub Pack 61 of Trinity Lutheran Church, each tray will include a clothes pin and cotton Santa Claus.

A walk around the halls will reveal numerous Christmas decorations, such as small artificial trees, a poinsettia in the lobby, and numerous other decorations in the rooms.

Although Christmas trees are not allowed due to the fire hazard and need for space, one small artificial tree adrons the room of Kent Burke, son of Mr. and Mrs. Merlin Burke, 2516 Highland, Southwest Village. Kent, age six, was cirtically burned recently, and won't be going home Christmas, but when Santa passes over Sedalia Christmas Eve one of his first stops will be Kent's room at the hospital. Every possible effort has been made by the second floor nursing staff and hospital administration to insure a happy and joyful Christmas for the small sandy-haired boy.

Besides the hospital staff itself, several local organizations have worked to brighten up Christmas in the hospital. For the past two weeks carolers have been strolling the halls singing, and the Salvation Army passed out copies of the "War Cry" to patients. And on Christmas day, as on most other days, there will be a Red Cross volunteer on duty to serve wherever needed.

But for those who can't go home the hospital is rather "lenient" on the visiting restrictions, according to Feeback. He also pointed out that the hospital "census" decreases sharply on Christmas. Most of those near discharge generally leave and only those that absolutely have to, stay. And in some rare cases patients take a "one day leave" to go home for Christmas and come back after the holiday.

No matter how hard the doctors, nurses, and the hospital in general try, there will be patients on Christmas Day. But through the special efforts of the entire hospital, the day will be a little brighter and a little nicer than it might have been without the Christmas spirit at the Bothwell Hospital.

Christmas at Bothwell Hospital

Above, Kent Burke, age six, son of Mr. and Mrs. Merlin Burke, 2516 Highland, lies in bed in his room at the Bothwell Hospital. Kent was critically burnea recently and won't be going home Christmas, but the spirit of the yuletide has not missed the hospital. Directly above Kent's head hangs a Santa Claus doll and behind him is the artificial tree which Santa will place the presents under Christmas Eve. Thanks to the special efforts of the hospital staff, Christmas will be a little brighter for Kent and the other patients who won't be home Christmas day. (Democrat-Capital photo.)

Windsor Woman Wins 'Cycle in a Drawing

Mrs. Lee Musick of Windsor, was the winner of a Honda motorcycle given away recently by Mattingly Brothers Stores Company, Inc.

Ralph Meador, president of the Lexington, Mo., Chamber of Commerce, drew Mrs. Musick's name in ceremonies at the company's general office in Lexington.

She was one of 5,635 persons who registered for the Honda.

BRIDGES FOR PROFIT

BHOPAL, India (AP) — Madhya Pradesh State believes it has developed a scheme which will provide the state with the many bridges it needs but can not afford.

Contractors are being asked to build pontoon or other inexpensive bridges at their own cost. Then they will be permitted to charge tolls for a specified period, judged sufficient to recover costs and make a profit.

Miniskirts Countered

PANJIM, Goa, India (AP) — The miniskirt rage is being countered in this former Portuguese colony by a "modesty front" sponsored by the Rev. Faustino de Souza. He said there will be a 1968 fashion show competiton of "modesty dresses," with hems at least reaching knees, sleeves touching elbows.

Poultry Plant Inspections As Second Step

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman Friday told Rep. Leonor K. Sullivan, D-Mo., that plans are being made to strengthen requirements for poultry inspection.

"We are concerned that substantial quantities of commercially produced poultry products do not receive adequate inspection to assure wholesomeness," Freeman said in a letter to Mrs. Sullivan.

Mrs. Sullivan, chairman of the House Banking subcommittee on Consumer Affairs, had asked Freeman to prepare a bill for her to introduce.

"We are in the process of developing amendments" to be submitted to Congress, Freeman wrote.

Mrs. Sullivan had told Freeman she was sure "there must be millions of pounds of poultry sold only in intrastate commerce and I would suspect that most of this comes from plants which could not possibly meet the requirements for federal inspection."

PHIL RODEWALD, son of Dr. and Mrs. J. J. Rodewald, 809 East Broadway, recently was elected president of Theta Chi Fraternity at Central Missouri State College, at Warrensburg. Phil, a 1964 graduate of Smithton High School, is a junior majoring in marketing.

'Aristocracy of Achievement' Edges British Class System Into Oblivion

By LYNN HEINZERLING
Associated Press Writer

LONDON (AP) — There was a hush and then came a genteel murmur of "Hear, Hear" as Baron Hill of Wivenhoe bent over in the House of Lords to shake hands with the Lord High Chancellor.

Edward James "Ted" Hill, 68-year-old former president of the Amalgamated Society of Boilermakers, Shipwrights, Blacksmiths and Structural Workers, had just joined the nobility in Britain's upper house with "all the rights, privileges, pre-eminences, immunities and advantages to the degree of baron."

Lord Hill's two sponsors for the occasion, already members of the House of Lords, were Lord Blyton—William Reid Blyton, 68—a former miner, and Lord Popplewell—Ernest Popplewell, 68—a former railway signalman.

Miners, signalmen, boilermakers in the Horse of Lords? Earls and viscounts addressing Ted Hill as "the noble lord?"

Is Britain's aristocracy coming apart at the seams?

The answer would have to be "not yet." There are still 28 dukes, 30 marquesses, 164 earls and countesses, 110 viscounts, and nearly 700 barons and baronesses, not to mention two archbishops and 24 bishops, listed among the peers.

Some nobles have fallen upon unhappy days. Death duties and taxes have eroded some great estates. Many lords are in business. One opened a restaurant. Others are in public relations.

There is a movement afoot to limit the right of hereditary peers to sit in the House of Lords. But the voices of those who want to abolish the peerage are few and muted. There are about 900 hereditary peers and 160 life peers, whose titles die with them.

There is a difference between the peerage and the aristocracy. Hill may be a baron, but except for his seat in the House of Lords, he is far from the world of the landed bluebloods.

Despite the taxes and the death duties which have whittled down the great estates of the 25 hereditary, nonroyal dukes and others, the aristocratic life persists. Perhaps a dozen of the dukes are among the 100 or more millionaires in Britain.

But in modern Britain, heredity is becoming less and less a factor in measuring success. There is a visible stirring in the once rigid class system. The division between middle class and upper class is becoming blurred and unreliable. The working class, no longer the largest, is still shrinking.

New measurements have appeared to fix a man's place in British society. This is the result of two world wars, the dissolution of the empire, the new technology, a long period of full employment now temporarily interrupted, an improving educational system and many other factors.

Heredity is no longer the principal yardstick for measuring class membership. Formerly, an Englishman was born into the class his parents inhabited —working, middle or upper— and he usually stayed there.

"The underlying assumption was that everyone's place in the system was fixed, as if by some divine force," says Robert Millar, who recently has published a study of Britain's class system called "The New Classes."

A new class structure, more elastic and democratic, is coming into being, based on "an aristocracy of achievement" rather than birth, he says.

The army, the empire, the monarchy, the Civil Service and the hereditary peerage with their institutions were the bastions which supported and preserved the sharp divisions in British society in Victorian days and through the reign of George V.

To this day, the crack Guards regiments rarely accept an officer candidate who has not had the gentlemanly background of an English public—private—school. But two world wars with general conscription and the inevitable inroads on the officer class brought a new, more democratic complexion to the army.

The empire drew off more of the public schoolboys to administer and control the colonies. The empire is no more. The top administrative class of Britain's huge and efficent civil service is no longer a closed society for public school boys and graduates of Oxford and Cambridge.

The aristocrats controlled the citadels of power in Britain—the government, the great banks and the land—for generations. Their hold is weakening.

Neither Prime Minister Harold Wilson nor the Conservative opposition leader, Edward Heath, are public schoolboys although both went to Oxford. Nor are Foreign Minister George Brown, or former Chancellor of the Exchequer James Callaghan, graduates of any of the smart schools. Brown is a former union leader.

The job once fixed an Englishman's status in the social hierarchy. The leaders in trade and industry were somehow inferior to doctors and lawyers. Electronics and other technological advances have changed that.

The apprentice who works his way to the top is now more likely to get his due.

The National Health Service and other benefits of the postwar welfare state have evened out some of the social bumps.

Sociologists say there is a growing feeling of equality. A long period of full employment strengthened this feeling.

Another force influencing the remolding of the class structure is education. Both major political parties now favor a comprehensive school system to challenge the dominance of the prestigious independent schools like Eton, Harrow and Rugby, if not to abolish them.

Graduates of these schools for years had first option on an education at Oxford or Cambridge and jobs at the seats of power and status. Pupils of all classes mingle in the new state schools.

In the comprehensive schools now coming into being, pupils are no longer divided at age 11 into candidates for higher education and candidates for jobs starting at age 16.

David Frost, the television personality, and his coauthor, Antony Jay, who recently published "To England with Love," ask: "Why is it that the English have only tinkered with their class system and not, like the rest of the apparently civilized world, completely abandoned it?"

Their answer: "First of all, it is very comfortable to have a class system. Once you establish yourself in the upper class, trivial accidents like a drop in income cannot dislodge you as long as you keep the right attitude. The system is a perfect consolation for failures."

The present Labor government, committed to a classless society some time in the future, takes a gradualist approach. Some feel that the growing comprehensive school system is its most solid achievement toward this end although there is still much reorganization to be done.

The government emphasizes home ownership and there is progress in this direction. Only 20 per cent of homes are now owned by private landlords, a drop from 50 per cent 10 years ago. Nearly half of British home are now owned by their occupiers and another 33 per cent by local housing authorities.

The benefits of the welfare state—free medical attention, pensions and unemployment insurance—take some of the sting out of the society's inequalities.

Wilson has made it clear that there will be no new hereditary peers as long as he is prime minister.

A government commission is now studying reforms for the House of Lords and it is expected that the number of hereditary peers automatically granted seats will be reduced. The club atmosphere of the resplendent chamber, where one or two of the lords usually can be seen dozing, is expected to be replaced by a more business-like order of business.

A lord draws $10.80 for each session of the house he attends even though he remains only a few minutes. Before devaluation the fee equaled $12.60.

The Marquess of Salisbury, commenting on the government plan to limit membership for hereditary peers, said that 50 years ago this would have been regarded as "something nearly akin to revolution."

"Looking at a proposal of this kind from the angle of 1967, personally it does not break my heart," he added. The act creating life peerages in 1958 killed the hereditary system stone dead, he said.

Queen Elizabeth sees men and women from all stations of British society. Guitar players, football stars and others, who never would have seen the inside of Buckingham Palace in earlier days, are honored annually.

The queen no longer receives the outstanding debutantes of the year although the "coming out" parties are as intense as ever. Nobody would think of complaining about the queen's decision.

In fact, the Earl of Arran, a hereditary poet, writer, and broadcasters, took a look at a published list of "top debs" earlier this year and snorted: "If these are fashionable folk, then I am Madame Pompadour."

Zephyr Exchange Of Gifts

In keeping with the annual custom, employees and guests of Zephyr Manufacturing Company observed the holiday season with a Christmas buffet dinner served at the plant building, 400 West Second, at noon Thursday, Dec. 21. This was the 25th year for the Christmas dinner.

Holly strips, candles, miniature Christmas trees and other Christmas motifs decorated the long tables at which approximately 100 persons were seated. Under a large Christmas tree at the head of the table was an immense box with the employees' exchange gifts.

Serving was under the direction of Gene Landon with a committee of Zephyr employees composed of Melvin J. Ohlrich, Bob Crook, Lillian Sickler, and Betty Woods in charge of the decorations.

During the meal entertainment was by the Smith-Cotton Stage Band directed by Bob Cummings. Members of this band are: David Cummings, David Duffield, Wayne Durrill, Mike Farley, Rick Huddleston, Gene Lane, John Lindstrom, Richard Lyles, Chris Marcum, Dennis Perkins, Steve Schumacher, Gary Seefelt, Patsy Siragusa, Charles Stanley, Victor Stuart, Jeff Summers, and James Wright.

Following the dinner R. J. Lindstrom, president, assisted by his daughter, Nancy Lindstrom, distributed the exchange gifts and the company's Christmas bonus checks, together with the annual statements of the Company's Profit Sharing Trust. A short talk was made by Lindstrom.

Guests for the occasion included: Mrs. Margaret D. Lindstrom, Mrs. R. J. Lindstrom, Nancy Lindstrom, Mrs. David Eisenstein, Ned E. Lindstrom, Mrs. C. M. Huddleston, Mrs. C. E. Belden, Mr. and Mrs. O. C. Blankenship and Mrs. Betty Hickam.

Club Notes

The Busy Stitchers Club met Dec. 16, at the home of Mrs. Helen Garrison for the annual turkey supper and Christmas party for members and their families.

After the contributive dinner games were played of which Mrs. Edith Richardson and Mrs. Marian Gee, were winners.

Gifts were exchanged and pals revealed. Names were drawn for the coming year. Mrs. Jean Galloway became a new member.

The next meeting will be with Mrs. Grace Rollings.

Yuletide Ceremony Unites Pennye Nichols, Leon Hall, Jr.

Before an altar banked with standards of emerald fir, poinsettia, and garlands of holly, Miss Pennye Kaye Nichols, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Palmer Ray Nichols, 622 East 17th St., and Mr. Leon Morris Hall, Jr., son of Mrs. Leon Morris Hall, Sr., 1805 East Sixth, and the late Mr. Hall, were united in marriage at half past two the afternoon of Saturday, December 16, at the New Hope Baptist Church.

The Rev. Marvin T. Nobles performed the double ring ceremony before a setting of a brass arch candelabrum holding 15 white tapers nestled in emerald fir and tied with bright red satin bows, centering the rostrum. Red satin Christmas bows also marked the family pews and a royal white carpet covered the bridal aisle.

Miss Teresa Preuitt played traditional wedding selections on the organ, and Mrs. Marvin T. Nobles sang "I Love You Truly," and "The Wedding Prayer."

Mr. Palmer Ray Nichols, II, brother of the bride, Columbia, and Mr. Robert K. Longan, Route 3, were candlelighters.

The bride was given in marriage by her father, and wore a wedding gown of chalk white Alencon lace and peau de soie. Above a slender silk skirt, the heightened empire bodice was fashioned of lace, with a sabrina neckline and long tapering sleeves. A matching sleeveless coat fitted over the gown, with a mantle train of lace framed in silk, extending to chapel length. A coronet of lace embroidered with sequins and pearls held her elbow length viel of imported illusion. The bridal flowers were a traditional cascade of white roses and ivy centering a white orchid, atop a white Bible.

Maid of honor, Miss Karen Sue Powell, Blue Springs, and Matron of honor, Mrs. Palmer Ray Nichols, II, sister-in-law of the bride, Columbia, wore identical floor length gowns of ruby red velvet. The bodice was fashioned with a scooped neckline and the empire waistline was accented with a matching red velvet rose. The dress featured elbow length sleeves fashioned with a circular ruffle and the A-line skirt was accented in back by a full flare and topped with a bow. Matching slippers completed the ensemble. Their headpieces were white fur circlets with short brush veils and they carried soft white fur muffs accented with a sprig of holly.

Mr. E. Wesley Bartley, St. Louis was best man, and Mr. Paul N. Salmon, Sedalia, acted as groomsmen. Guests were seated by Mr. Nichols, brother of the bride, and Mr. Longan.

The mother of the bride wore a beige silk two piece dress with red accessories. The mother of the groom selected a green knit sheath dress and coat with coordinating accessories. Red rose corsages set off their dresses.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the church with approximately 175 guests present. The bride's table was covered with floor length net over white taffeta and was caught up at the corners with white satin bows, all made by the bride's grandmother, Mrs. Toney J. Turner, and the bride's aunt, Mrs. Arthur Turner. Centering the festive holiday table was a three tiered wedding cake featuring a miniature bride and groom on the highest tier, surrounded with Christmas holly. Twin three branch candelabra with white tapers flanked the cake on either side.

Miss Janet Burford, Belton, served the cake, and Mrs. Michael Severide poured the punch. Misses Sandra, Jeannie, Sharon, and Gayle Turner, LaMonte, cousins of the bride, assisted at the reception. Miss Charlene Hofstetter, Jefferson City, was in charge of the guest book, and Miss Sharon Buchanan was in charge of the gift table. Mrs. Everett Preuitt, Mrs. Arvil Buchanan, Mrs. Myron Griswold, Mrs. Willis Dillbeck, assisted generally.

The bride is a 1964 graduate of Smith-Cotton High School, and has completed the requirements for the Bachelor of Music Education degree from Central Missouri State College, Warrensburg. The groom is also a 1964 graduate of Smith-Cotton High School and after completing the requirements for a teaching certificate at the University of Missouri, Columbia, he will return to the University of Missouri at Rolla where he is a senior, majoring in mathematics.

After a wedding trip to St. Louis the couple will reside in Columbia.

Out of town guests attending the wedding were: Mr. and Mrs. Palmer Ray Nichols II, Rep, and Mrs. George W. Parker, Columbia; Mr. and Mrs. Larry Holdren, Raytown, Miss Janet Burford, Belton; Miss Charlene Hofstetter, Jefferson City; Miss Becky Allcorn, Hazelwood; Mr. Art Farris, Boonville; Mr. Lawrence Cook, California; Mrs. F. Miss Sandra Turpin, Gary Dyer Exchange Vows December 17

Mrs. Gary Dyer

Wedding vows were exchanged by Miss Sandra Sue Turpin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert P. Turpin, Jefferson City; and Gary Spencer Dyer, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Lawrence Dyer, Route 2, at 2 o'clock the afternoon of Sunday, December 17, at the First Methodist Church, Jefferson City. The Rev. D. Russell Lytle performed the double ring ceremony.

Wedding music was played by Mrs. Russell Bryant, Jefferson City, organist, and Mrs. W. L. Cunningham, Ft. Smith, Ark., great aunt of the groom, sang "Because," and the "Lord's Prayer," accompanied by Mrs. Russell Bryant.

The nuptial altar was flanked by matching seven branch candelabra holding white tapers and arrangements of white poinsettias and palm fronds with broad leaf Christmas greens inside the communion rail.

The bride was given in marriage and escorted down a white carpeted aisle by her father. She wore a floor length frost white gown of imported Chantilly lace and silk organza. The yoke and redingote front, revealing the sheath organza gown. The lace cage effect edged in scalloped lace in rose design, drifted to a wide chapel train. Her sheer white elbow length veil of imported illusion was secured by a headpiece of tulle petals trimmed with fragile pearls. The bridal flowers were a sunburst bouquet of lilies of the valley.

Miss Pam Walz, St. Louis, maid of honor, wore a floor length empire gown of moss green crepe. The bodice featured a rounded scooped neckline and short sleeves finished with three circular ruffles. She wore a matching face length veil held by a crown of swiss braid and carried a crescent bouquet of varigated holly.

Miss Janice Hirschman, Miss Janet Strader, Miss Marla Stapleton, Jefferson City; and Miss Sarah Clibourn, Mexico, bridesmaids, wore gowns identical to the maid of honor.

Miss Melissa Hirschman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Hirschman, Jefferson City, flower girl, dressed identical to the attendants and wore a halo of holly with varigated holly in her dainty red basket.

Bruce Turpin, brother of the bride, was candlelighter.

Sherman Rotskoff, St. Louis, Sigma Phi Epsilon fraternity brother, acted as best man, with Tom Hermann, Tim O'Neill, St. Louis; Tom Bultmann, Jefferson City; Jack Phillips, Camdenton, fraternity brothers, as groomsmen.

Ushering duties were performed by Bill Minton, Bernard Fechter, Don Boetcher and Randy Hillis, St. Louis, also fraternity brother of the groom.

Steve Turpin, brother of the bride, carried the rings on a heart shaped pillow trimmed with lace and satin.

The bride's mother wore a turquoise silk dress jacket ensemble with matching accessories, and a white cymbidium orchid corsage. Mother of the groom chose a pale blue matelasse crepe dress jacket ensemble with matching accessories and a rose toned cymbidium orchid corsage.

A reception followed the ceremony in the church dining room. The traditional bride's table was covered with an all white lace cloth edged with smilax and centered with a tiered wedding cake, with each tier separated by columns. A miniature bride and groom on the top tier reigned over their sugar and icing domain.

Mrs. William Turpin, Bowling Green; and Mrs. William Reidle, Verona, aunts of the bride, served, with Mrs. Marc Miller, Warrensburg, assisting at the guest book, and Miss Marcia Cole, and Miss Carolyn Klug, Jefferson City, assisting at the gift table. Assisting generally were Mrs. D. Russell Lytle, Mrs. Robert Sodergren, Mrs. Robert Abernathy, Mrs. Vince Spencer, Miss Jane Noren, Miss Pam Booker, Jefferson City; Miss Pam Shontz, St. Louis; Miss Kathee Rigsby, Waynesville; and Mrs. Berniece Boseley, Kansas City, aunt of the bride.

Following a short wedding trip, the couple will reside in Springfield, where they are both students at Southwest Missouri State College.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Lawrence Dyer, entertained Saturday evening, Dec. 16, with a rehearsal dinner in the dining hall of Josh's Restaurant, Jefferson City.

Members of the immediate family and bridal party attended the dinner and out of town guests were Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Cunningham, and Mrs. William B. Stewart, Ft. Smith, Ark.; and Miss Lucille Jones, Paris, Ark.

Mrs. Gene Sandifer

Miss Frankie Berhowe Is Bride Of Mr. Gene Sandifer Dec. 9

On December 9 at 2 o'clock in the afternoon Miss Frankie Berhowe, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Marvin W. Berhowe, Independence; became the bride of Mr. Gene Sandifer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Don Sandifer, Raytown at the Raytown Christian Church. Dr. Woodrow Jones performed the ceremony before an altar garnished with red and white scented carnations.

Marvin Mothersead sang the "Lord's Prayer," and "Whither Thou Goest."

Miss Berhowe, given in marriage by her father, chose an all white gown of satin, styled with dainty lace bodice and slim lace fingertip sleeves. Her chapel length train of satin lace fell from the shoulders, and was held by a large bow. A jeweled flower with seed pearl petals held her short sheer frost white bridal veil. The flowers were a white orchid surrounded with stephanotis.

Mrs. Judy Fisher, Independence, attended the bride as matron of honor, carrying a bouquet of red roses, and Mr. George Harvey, Hughesville, was best man.

Mr. Mike Lutzenberger, St. Louis, and Mrs. Richard Berhowe, Independence, performed the ushering duties.

Following the ceremony a reception was held with Miss Barbara Berhowe, Miss Janet Sandifer and Miss Sara Stitt as servers. The couple then left for a wedding trip to Tan-Tar-A Resort at the Lake of the Ozarks.

They will be at home in Lee's Summit.

Bridal Showers Honor Linda Bayne

Miss Linda Bayne, California, was recently honored with two miscellaneous bridal showers.

Mrs. Carl Mason and her daughter Margi, were hostesses to a shower for Miss Bayne at their home, near California. A large white wedding bell with red and white streamers hung over the heads of the guests. Games were played. Miss Bayne opened her gifts, and the hostesses then served refreshments.

Guests attending were: Miss Timmie Hume, Mrs. Debbie Hill, Miss Diana Bueker, Mrs. Carolyn Miller and daughter Michelle, Mary Edwards, Melva, Bonnie, and Connie Eveland, Mrs. Ann Lademan, Doris Jean Kunze, Mrs. Wesley Bayne, and Miss Betty Bayne.

Double Ring Ceremony Unites Shirley Turner, Larry McCown

(Fine Art Studio)

Mrs. Larry Duane McCown

The Rev. Medford Speaker read the double ring ceremony that united in marriage Miss Shirley Ann Turner, daughter of Mrs. Floyd James Turner, 1614 West Liberty Park, and the late Mr. Turner, and Mr. Larry Duane McCown, son of Mr. and Mrs. Morris McCown, Rt. 4, the evening of December 9, at the East Sedalia Baptist Church.

The bride was escorted down the aisle and given in marriage by her brother, Floyd James Turner, Jr., before an altar appointed with a tree candelabrum setting in front of a green velvet arch, entwined with white mums and fragrant evergreens. Flanking the tree candelabrum were twin pyramid candelabra also entwined with the white mums and evergreen foliage.

Mrs. Sandra Miller, organist, played traditional selections and Miss Sandy Copas sang, "O Perfect Love," and the "Lord's Prayer."

For her wedding, the bride wore an empire wedding gown of silk faced peau de soie. Above the widening skirt the ice white high bodice was styled with long tapering sleeves and a soft oval neckline. Flower garlands of Brussels lace highlighted the front of the gown with a chapel length train flowing from the shoulders. A coronet of lace and tiny pearls held her elbow length veil of sheer silk illusion. Her bridal bouquet was a white prayer book covered with white roses and stephanotis with white streamers tied with love knots drifting down from the flowers.

Mrs. John Mothersbaugh, sister of the bride, maid of honor, and Miss Janet Harle, Lee's Summit; and Miss Ann Casady, Bethany; bridesmaids, wore floor length princess style gowns of green velvet accented with bows at the shoulders. Their headpieces were Dior bows of matching green and they wore matching green shoes. Colonial nosegays of garnet roses completed their ensembles.

Mr. Merlyn McCown, brother of the groom, was best man, with Mr. Bill Ferguson and Mr. Robert Nagel serving as groomsmen, and Mr. Bill Casady, Bethany; Mr. Jim Gibson, Kansas City; Mr. Ernie Lee, Boonville; and Mr. Gary Miller, Independence; as ushers.

Mrs. Turner wore a green silk dress, a black velvet hat, and matching green shoes. Mrs. McCown chose a beige brocade dress with beige shoes, and a matching open pill box hat that highlighted her attire. Both women wore corsages of cymbidium orchids.

A reception was held at 8 p.m. at the Bothwell Hotel with approximately 150 to 200 guests in attendance. The bridal table featured a three layered white cake topped with red garnet roses. Silver candelabra also adorned the festive nuptial table, and the punch table was accented with bouquets of roses and a silver coffee service.

Mrs. Bill Ferguson, Mrs. Dennis Hotchkiss, Mrs. Robert Baum, Mrs. Donald Garst, and Mrs. Merlyn McCown were servers and Mrs. Robert Nagel was in charge of the guest book.

After a wedding trip to St. Louis the couple will be at home in Pilot Grove.

The bride is a 1964 graduate of Smith-Cotton and is a senior at Central Missouri State College, majoring in elementary education. The groom is a 1963 Smith-Cotton graduate, attended Central Missouri State College, and is presently employed with Universal C.I.T. in Boonville.

Winter Ceremony Unites Elsie Yarnell, Billy Meyers

Miss Elsie Iola Yarnell, daughter of Mrs. Lucille Yarnell, Clarksburg, and the late Paul Yarnell, and Billy Joe Meyers, son of Mrs. Nancy Meyers, Otterville, and Mr. Bill Meyers, Syracuse, were united in marriage at half past four the afternoon of Saturday, Dec. 2 at the Clarksburg Baptist Church, Clarksburg.

The Rev. Roy Dameron, Houstonia, performed the double ring ceremony before an altar appointed with bouquets of red poinsettias and white mums surrounded with greenery. Two seven branch candelabra with white lighted tapers sent a soft glow over the nuptial altar.

The bride, given in marriage by her brother, Denny Yarnell, wore a white satin floor length empire gown with lacy scalloped neckline and long sleeves. Her floor length bridal train of stain was trimmed with lace roses and the silk illusion viel was secured by a queens crown of tiny pearls and crystals. She carried a bouquet of white carnations framed in red roses entwined with holly.

Traditional wedding music was played as the guests were seated and Mrs. Paul Cox sang "Oh Promise Me," and "I Love You Truly."

Mrs. Mary Lou Dawon, Paris, matron of honor, wore a red velvet gown edged in white, with a matching hat. She carried a fresh long stemmed carnation. Miss Kathy Yarnell, sister of the bride, and Miss Martreta Carpenter, bridesmaids, dressed in identical attire to the matron of honor.

Candlelighters were Russell Yarnell, brother of the bride, and John Meyer, brother of the groom. Sherry Lynn Yarnell, sister of the bride, and Pamala Yarnell, niece of the bride, flower girls, wore red velvet floor length gowns and carried white satin baskets brimming with tiny red rose petals. Master Mike Hickman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Elroy Hickman, Clarksburg, carried the rings on a white satin pillow.

Harvey Meyer, brother of the groom, acted as best man, with Larry Murphy and Johnny Meyer as groomsmen. Jimmy Clutter and Roger Yarnell, cousins of the bride, performed the ushering duties.

The bride's mother chose a three piece knitted suit of gold tones, with black accessories, and the groom's mother selected a navy ensemble with white and black accessories. Red rose corsages completed both attires.

Following the ceremony a reception was held in the church basement, decorated in the seasonal Christmas colors of red and whte. A four tiered wedding cake centered the bride's table, flanked by white candles at either end, with a cut glass punch bowl also adorning the table.

Mrs. Lois Heather and Mrs. Mary Carpenter served cake and punch. Miss Linda Moore was in charge of the guest book, and Miss Charlotte Martin and Mrs. Judy Fields were in charge of the gifts.

The bride is a graduate of the Tipton High School and is employed at the Tipton Shoe Factory. The groom is a graduate of the Otterville High School and is presently employed with the L. P. H. Construction Co., Tipton.

The couple are at home in Clarksburg.

A Message for the Ages

That small, faint voice you may have heard above the racket of the cash registers during the Christmas shopping rush was that of an infant hoping to be noticed amid the hurrying crowds.

Most people, if they listened, recognized the voice as that of the Christ Child, the Savior. His birth, His mission on earth, is what Christmas is all about.

For many others—of different religious persuasion, or lesser persuasion, or no persuasion—the voice may have had a different source.

But it was and is present nonetheless, and the message it speaks is the same for all men.

It is a message that echoes across the ages each year at this season—a message of hope, of belief in the essential work of mankind, a rebounding faith that despite all the sorrow men visit upon themselves they are learning little by little how to live in peace with one another.

It is a message that has been relayed from one disillusioned, frustrated, yet hopeful, generation to another, and will go on being relayed until the allotted time for man on this planet runs out.

Man today has quite a bit to say about how long or short that time will be. For in this century he has discovered the power that can either reduce civilization to savagery, if not wipe it out altogether, or elevate it to heights undreamed of.

Yet it is not that power that needs controlling. It is man himself, just as it has always been.

That is why the Christmas message is as live and pertinent and hope-refreshing today as it was when it was first heard 2,000 years ago.

There CAN be peace on earth, if men will but have good will. There ARE tidings of great joy, if men will but unclog their ears of the noise and confusion they surround themselves with.

We will listen, for a time. For a brief moment, we will believe.

Then we will forget. We will carefully store away the precious, perishable joy of the holiday and again put on the tired old cynicism and selfishness of the everyday world.

Yet, why should we forget Christmas—until another year, when its undying message comes ringing back again?

The message is fresh and real the whole year round.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

White House Lonely at Christmas

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON—The mantel in the East Room of the White House has held many Christmas stockings, ranging from the bleak celebration of John Adams in 1800 to the topsy-turvy celebrations of the two Roosevelt families when that august mansion was teeming with children.

For more than 150 years the first family always celebrated Christmas in the White House. It was their home. In recent years it has come to be something of a combined museum for tourists and an office for official business; so that the Kennedys never spent a single Christmas in Washington, and this is the first Christmas to be celebrated in residence by the Johnsons.

The absence of the Kennedys caused some wags to recall that the Kennedy family came from Boston where for years the Puritans outlawed Santa Calus. The law in 1659 read: "Whosoever shall be found observing any such day as Christmas and the like, either by forebearing labor, feasting or any other way upon any such account as aforesaid, every such person so offending shall pay for each offense five shillings as a fine to the country." It was not until 1722 that the governor of Massachusetts gave public recognition to Christmas as a holiday.

This was not, however, why the Kennedys eschewed Christmas in the White House; rather it was because they liked the sunshine of Palm Beach, where the elder Kennedy entertained his large family at his winter residence.

—First Lady's Problems

The Johnson family hitherto has spent Christmas in Texas; but this year, with the family expanded from 4 to 7, they will remain at home. The Robbs, the Nugents, and little Lyn will hang up their Christmas stockings before one of the 12 fireplaces which Abigail Adams, the second first lady, complained were so difficult to supply with wood.

"Surrounded with forests, can you believe that wood is not to be had because people cannot be found to cut and cart it!" Abigail wrote her daughter Nov. 21, 1800. "Briesler entered into a contract with a man to supply him with wood. A small part, a few cords only, has he been able to get. Most of that was expended to dry the walls of the house before we came in, and yesterday the man told him it was impossible for him to procure it to be cut and carted. He had recourse to coals; but we cannot get grates made and set in. We have indeed come into a new country.

"You must keep all this to yourself and, when asked how I like it, say that I write you thesituation is beautiful, which is true. The house is made habitable, but there is not a single apartment finished...We have not the least fence, yard or other convenience, without, and the great unfinished audience room (The East Room) I make a drying room of to hang up the clothes in."

This is where the Johnson Christmas tree will stand and where so many Christmas ceremonies have taken place during the years that have passed.

Unfortunately the British burned the White House in the summer of 1814 so the Christmas which followed under Madison was not a happy one.

—Unhappy Christmases—

But probably the unhappiest Christmases in the White House were those spent by Lincoln during the Civil War; by Woodrow Wilson in 1917, during World War I; and by President Roosevelt during World War II.

Lincoln celebrated Christmas the first year of the Civil War by calling his cabinet into special session to discuss the Trent Embargo. It looked as if there might be war also with Britain.

Troops were encamped throughout Washington, and the capital was packed with all sorts of people attracted by the Army—contractors, inventors, cranks, correspondents, artists, Indians, pickpockets, embalmers, and "women of the town."

The first Christmas following the Civil War was celebrated in 1865 with Andrew Johnson in the White House; though historians noted that it was Gen. U.S. Grant who got the presents and enjoyed the limelight. The New York Stock Exchange appropriated $5,000 for him as a Christmas testimonial fund which by New Year's Day had swelled to $100,000 in thanks for his victory over the Confederacy.

Christmas in the White House under Grover Cleveland in 1885 was somber. He was a bachelor. When he returned to the White House in 1893 he had married, and his family was enlarged to include a wife and two children. On Christmas Day he took them to the All-Washington annual football game in the baseball park at 7th and Florida Avenue, later to become Griffith Stadium. The All-Washingtons won 6 to 0.

When Teddy Roosevelt spent his first Christmas in the executive mansion in 1901 he gave 87 fat turkeys to members of the White House staff—police, ushers, messengers, gardeners, servants, and stablemen. This was the largest distribution of its kind until that time by any president. President William McKinley always gave turkeys as presents to his married employees, but his list was smaller.

My father-in-law, who was a cousin of Teddy Roosevelt's and served as his military aide, described the White House in those days as approaching bedlam. The Roosevelt children, six in all, had their toys all over the house, and once sneaked a pony up in the elevator to the third floor.

There was one thing about Christmas, however, that Teddy Roosevelt would not tolerate—namely, Christmas trees. He was such a conservationist that he objected to any Christmas tree being cut for official White House use—quite a contrast to the hundred-million-dollar Christmas tree industry of today.

The uncle of a five-year-old boy had been ill but was better, so he went to the home of the youngster who was so glad to see him. He insisted on showing his room to his uncle and while in there went over to his little pocketbook, took out a nickel and wanted to give it to his uncle.

The latter at first didn't want to take it, but the little boy insisted. "No, take it," he said, "you've been sick and I want to do something for you."

And so the uncle took it. It was the best nickel he ever had in his life. — H. L.

The Story of Christmas

Homecoming for the Holidays

Christmas Is Not a Place

By DAVID POLING

Home is the most powerful emotion when people think about Christmas. The big question asked in New York, Los Angeles and Paris is, "Are you going home for Christmas?" In a year when young men are far away from home in the Army or the Peace Corps, Christmas again becomes the poignant and painful season of separation.

But think about this: Jesus Christ was born away from home. When Mary brought Jesus into the world they were en route to Bethlehem. St. Luke tells us about the taxation procedure that sent Joseph from Nazareth to Bethlehem to be "enrolled." This was his home city and yet the Holy Family was unable to find accommodations for the birth of the Christ Child, finding shelter in a primitive barn.

Consider this: Everyone included in the Christmas story was away from home. The shepherds who came to honor the birth of Christ did some traveling. The Wise Men crossed mountains and valleys and rivers to greet this newborn King. Christmas and the coming of Christ did not mean homecoming or family reunions as much as it illustrated the dramatic appearance of God's love and promise to a frightened and weary world.

Christmas is really the deep and abiding feeling in your life that comes from the birth of Christ. Christmas is a person and not a place.

Now if Christmas is not confined to homecoming, not limited to the family circle nor hampered by a geographic togetherness, then a rich and powerful meaning has come into our lives. Wherever we are, God's gift through His Son becomes a refueling and renewing experience in every heart that responds to the hope and promise of this birth.

Gilbert Highet reminds us that George Washington kept one of the most complete diaries of any person during colonial days in America. His journal, which spans a period of almost 40 years, seems to find its highlights around Christmas. And for Washington, many Christmases were spent far from home and family.

For instance, in 1751, at the age of 19, he spent Christmas at sea, taking his brother Lawrence to the island of Barbados. His ailing brother was on the verge of collapse and George became his escort and nurse as they wintered in a more temperate climate.

At the age of 21, Washington spied out the French forts along the Ohio River. He celebrated Christmas by fording the Allegheny River, which was swollen with ice, in an effort to escape from the French and Indians who stalked this young patriot. Throughout his life, the man who loved Mount Vernon, family and home was to be denied them so often. We think of his Christmas attack on Trenton and the wintry Yule at Valley Forge the following year.

In the last diary entry that he made, on Christmas, 1798, Washington wrote with a vision of all the years that had been filled with hardship, treachery, victory and illness these lines:

"It is not necessary to be brave or clever or generous or beloved or even happy. It is necessary simply to do one's duty. All else flows from that."

At Christmas, no one was home, but everyone doing their duty. Joseph was on his way to pay his taxes. The shepherds were watching their sheep. The Wise Men were following the scholar's road of study and travel. God revealed Himself to all of these and especially to Mary, the world's first refugee. Chesterton was right. When we have found the Person, then we will be in the right place.

"To an open house in the evening
"Home shall men come
"To an older place than Eden
"And a taller town than Rome
"To the end of the way of the wondering star
"To the place where God was homeless
"And all men art at home."

To a rubber bridge player, 10 points means nothing at all. Once in awhile, if he is playing for money and scoring a rubber to the nearest hundred, it may mean an extra point, but, all in all, he pays no attention to such trifles.

To a duplicate player it may mean the difference between a top score and an average, and many duplicate players will play a slam in no-trump in an effort to get the extra 10 points.

South was one of that type. He decided that he would make just as many tricks at no-trump as at hearts and that he wanted those 10 points.

South was right from the first standpoint. The hand did produce as many tricks at no-trump and when West failed to cash his ace of spades at trick one, South made a grand slam and got the top score he was trying for.

From a practical standpoint it turned out that his six no-trump call was totally unnecessary. It seems that at all other tables, North checked for aces with four no trump and then, carried away by his own 20 points, bid the six no-trump himself.

Invariably, East led a spade. Some North players put in the 10 spot and managed to get out for down one. A couple of hardy souls went up with the king in the hope that East had underled an ace and went down three.

We take no stand on South's final bid of six no-trump, but we do take a real stand in favor of North's bidding. North was Roger Stern, the newly elected president of the Greater New York Bridge Association, and Roger was well-aware that a spade would be led if he were declarer and a spade lead might be disastrous. Furthermore, he knew that Paul Trent, his partner, was well-aware of all duplicate potentialities.

He Couldn't Find Christmas

He couldn't find Christmas.
The reason was this.
He was looking too hard.
So the spirit he'd miss:
He shook his head sadly
As he watched the crowd
"They are pagan," he thought
As his noble head bowed.
They are out buying gifts.
They are all having fun
And none of them worshipping
The Holy One:
He couldn't find Christmas.
He was looking too hard
So he didn't have time
To mail one single card
To a shutin or someone
Friendless and alone
Or to revive memories
For someone he'd known:
He couldn't find Christmas,
And long was his search.
He was blind to the program
Of children in church.
The fresh little faces
Expectant and bright
Singing songs, saying pieces
Or stiff from stage fright.
Their mothers made costumes
And they would rehearse
For their patient teachers.
Verse after verse.
But he didn't help them
For too busy was he Looking for Christmas
That he couldn't see:
The carolers sang
In the frosty night air
Their praise of the Christ Child
But the man was not there:
He trimmed not a tree
For he could not stop
To notice that there
Was a star up on top:
He scowled at the Santa
So round and so quaint
Forgetting his origin
Was a gift-giving saint:
And the gaily wrapped presents,
How much people spend.
Yet love in each package
For family or friend:
No, he couldn't find Christmas.
Though he looked all about
With a face much too long
And a feeling devout:
He couldn't find Christmas.
Though he looked everywhere
For he couldn't see
That its joy is to share.
That the real Christ in Christmas
Is loving and giving
And following the Star
In our everyday living.
There was no Christ in Christmas
From his point of view.
But Christ is in all
Of the good things we do.
The worship in churches.
The baskets well filled,
The soft cry from the manger
Has never been stilled.
In each decoration.
Each gift He's a part
For Christ is the Christmas
That lives in each heart.

YOUR DENTAL HEALTH

Wiser to See Dentist Than Be Sorry Later

By WILLIAM LAWRENCE, D.D.S.

Nolan C. is 29 years old. Before he's 30, doctors say, he's going to die. Until his illness Nolan laid ties and track for the railroad, and took good care of his family. He's married and father of two young children.

Prior to June '67 there was no history of severe illness. His health was good. He never took medicine. He didn't drink. He smoked two packs of cigarettes a day.

Nolan avoided dentists all his life except when he had a toothache. The bad tooth was always pulled. In June '67, nine upper teeth were left and 11 lowers.

About this time his upper front teeth seemed to be pushing forward and spaces developed between them. This made his lip stick out. Because he didn't look good and because his wife nagged him (at 27, she already wore full upper and lower dentures), he went to the dentist.

Decision was made to extract remaining upper teeth and fit him with full upper denture. Lower teeth were saved.

This was done in June '67. Gum healing was uneventful but patient complained from first day that his teeth had no suction, and there was "too much in front." But he had no pain and got on fairly well.

About a month later, Nolan complained that his denture wouldn't stay in at all. A hard swelling developed on left side of nose under his eye. Still no pain.

Swelling was of little concern to Nolan. He often got banged on the job, or bitten by bugs. When it didn't go away he blamed his teeth. His dentist said he didn't know what was wrong and referred him to a medical center.

Exam revealed large, firm mass in front part of upper jaw, and seemed to involve floor of sinus and base of nose. Biopsy was taken. Report: Osteogenic sarcoma, a fast-growing, invasive bone cancer.

Tumor area was irradiated to reduce size. Irradiation was for treatment, not cure. About four weeks later, Nolan returned to the medical center for surgical removal of growth. Night before operation he was still trying to decide whether to go through with it.

Next morning his entire upper jaw, including hard palate, was removed. Eight days later surgical packs were removed and dental prosthesis was inserted to help maintain facial contours, and hopefully to aid in speaking and swallowing.

Prognosis: Poor. Doctors say Nolan has six months to a year to live.

Bad Year for Auto Makers

DETROIT (AP) — The auto industry ran into some rough going in 1967 as labor problems and a drop in sales of U.S. built new cars forced it to settle for the third best calendar year to-date.

About 8.5 million new cars, including a record breaking 780,000 imports, were sold in the U.S. market

This figure ranked well behind the 1966 total of 9,008,488 and the record-setting year of 1965 when 9,313,912 were sold. Import sales came to 658,123 units in 1966 and 569,415 a year earlier.

The big factor in the auto picture was a 50-day nationwide strike at Ford Motor Co's U.S. plants, followed by a series of local Ford plant disputes and similar local plant tieups at some Chrysler Corp. and General Motors plant.

The United Auto Workers Union reached national contract agreements with Ford and Chrysler and then took similar demands to General Motors where agreement was reached.

The new contracts generally carried a boost of about $1 an hour over three years; the old contracts gave workers about about $4.70 an hour in wages and fringe benefits.

American Motors, smaliest of the four major auto companies, asked the UAW for special consideration in contract talks in view of AMC's $75 million loss in its 1967 fiscal year. The union took the matter under advisement.

The drop in calendar year sales bore out predictions of industry leaders early in 1967 that the labor talks, with accompanying work stoppages, would slow the rate of auto sales.

Henry Ford II, chairman of Fords said in December 1966 that new car sales would come close to 9 million units in 1967 if there was no strike. He added that the figure would be closer to 8.4 million cars if work stoppages occurred. He did not know at that time that his firm would be the UAW's primary strike target but he was on the mark with his 8.4 million figure.

The pace of 1967 auto sales trailed that of 1966 through virtually the whole year. In looking for reasons for the decline, observers listed the unsettled labor problems as the main reason. Others mentioned frequently were the auto safety issue, the war in Vietnam and tighter money.

As far as Vietnam was concerned, draft calls and enlistments took thousands of young men out of the potential auto buyers market. Industry sources said these young men would constitute a major buying force when hostilities cease in Vietnam but for the moment, they have things other than new cars to occupy their minds.

Reports that 1968 cars would have more safety features were credited by some industry sources with causing people to delay purchases during the 1967 model run.

(PRODUCTION)

The labor picture was the biggest question mark in how the U.S. production total for the calendar year would finish. Indications were that the figure would be close to 7.6 million units, far behind the 8,611,776 built in calendar 1966—and the record 9,329,104 cars built in calendar 1965.

Through 11 months of 1967, the four U.S. auto firms built 6,896,447 cars, about 15 per cent behind the 8,105,299 assembled in the first 11 months of 1966.

Ford, principal loser in the auto building race, estimated that the long strike had cost it about 485,000 cars and 90,000 trucks.

Truck output also was affected by the strikes and indications were that the industry would wind up with about 1.5 million trucks for calendar 1967, its fourth best year. The figure was topped only by 1966 (1,764,337); 1965 (1,885,109) and 1964 (1,560,644).

Despite the smaller number of cars sold in the U.S. market this year, the car buyers' bill was expected to be about the same — some $36 billion — because of higher price tags and more optional equipment purchases this time around.

Prices of 1968 models were higher at introduction time than a year earlier. Another price boost by Jan. 1 seemed most likely as auto makers studied how they could pass along to consumers increased costs due to safety items, new wage scales worked out with the UAW and increased costs of materiels, especially steel and copper.

Figuring out auto price tag comparisons is one of the most complicated projects in the American business economy. Companies shuffled models around and also juggle the equipment on cars from year to year.

Automotive News, a trade publication which makes a detailed study of price increases each year figured that the stiffer prices of 1968 models were up an average of $116.25 a car, or 3.63 per cent over 1967 prices.

That was based on a comparison of about 300 of the 1968 car models on which the industry offered comparable models in 1967. In all, 357 models were available in the 1968 car line of U.S. firms.

The Bureau of Labor Statistics estimated that new car prices in the 1968 line were up 3.75 per cent or $87.54 per car. It said $26.95 of the increase was due to safety improvements and $11.20 to design changes to reduce emission of exhaust pollutants. The rest was a pure price boost, the BLS said.

In general, 1968 cars are longer, lower and wider than 1967s.

The furore over auto safety cooled considerably in 1967 as the federal government went ahead with its program calling for 20 safety items to be added to 1968 cars.

There was some grumbling from the auto companies but they did manage to meet the modified safety standards and include such items as windshield washers and defoggers, dual cylinder brake systems, impact absorbing steering columns and safety door latches on the 1968 cars.

And if anyone had any idea that the government interest in cutting the nation's traffic death toll of 52,000 a year was only a momentary thing it was dispelled in October, when Transportation Secretary Alan S. Boyd issued 47 additional proposed standards covering cars through 1971.

The Blizzard of 1888 concentrated on New York City. Snow began sifting down Sunday night, March 11. By Monday morning, drifts were knee-high. Before noon, every horsecar, cable car and elevated train had stopped running. Firemen raised ladders to rescue passengers from stalled elevated trains

Highway Patrol Into KC Limits

Captain V. E. Maxey, Commanding Officer of Troop A, Missouri State Highway Patrol at Lee's Summit, announces that effective Jan. 1, 1968, Highway Patrol officers will patrol the interstate highways within the city limits of Kansas City. The Captain said plans have been under discussion for the past year between Chief Clarence M. Kelley of the Kansas City Police Department and Colonel E. I. Hockaday, Patrol Superintendent, relating to the Patrol assuming these responsibilities.

By mutual agreement between the two departments, Patrol officers assisted when necessary by Kansas City officers, will handle automobile accident investigations and traffic enforcement on the Interstate System. Persons arrested by the troopers for traffic violations will be processed through the Magistrate Courts. Captain Maxey said the troopers will direct their efforts toward the safe and expeditious movement of traffic concentrating on service to the motorist as well as strict enforcement of the Law.

Not So Retiring

Vietnamese Women Belie Stereotyped Orientals

SAIGON (AP) — Did you know there is a woman mayor in South Vietnam? That the Vietnamese wife picks up the dinner tab? That they diet to keep slim? That lovelorn columns are big stuff?

This is a country in which not every woman is a refugee, not every woman wears a coolie hat and not every housewife lives in a thatched hut with shooting at her doorstep.

Some ride in chauffeur-driven limousines. Some shop at Dior in Paris. Some vacation on the Riviera. Some have their eyes, noses and busts Westernized.

In government and business, as well as within the family circle, their influence is considerable.

A province chief, asked if he was corrupt, candidly replied, "Yes, of course. How could I support my wife in her fashion otherwise?"

Vice President Nguyen Cao Ky said he wouldn't have run for office if his wife hadn't okayed it. Insiders say she made the decision.

Dalat's mayor is Mrs. Nguyen Thi Hau, a beautiful, shapely woman in her early 40s. A lawyer schooled in Hanoi, she has lived in the mountain region of Dalat for 14 years with her doctor husband. She runs an office of 100 men with an iron fist.

South Vietnam also has two women senators, women who run banks and big businesses, women who hold hamlets together in the steaming jungles, women who direct the best-run program in the country—the midwifery clinics.

The stereotype Vietnamese woman is a delicate-featured raven-haired girl with a slender waist and doe eyes, wearing a graceful long-sleeved floor-length dress. For once, the stereotype runs true to form.

But her image belies her true nature. Asian women traditionally are pictured by Westerners as passive, docile creatures trained to please men, always in the background saying little.

Tell this to a Vietnamese woman and she'll laugh. She usually remains in the background publicly, but passive she is not. Men say she's tough. She admits she seldom takes "no" for an answer—to anything.

Confucious gets the credit here. Men, Confucius said, should dwell on thought, ethics, literature and philosophies. He decreed the female of the species should deal with matters of less consequences like money, the family, work.

It's common, for instance, to see a woman paying a restaurant bill. A man wouldn't think of it.

As for the Western beauty influences Mai Ky, beautiful wife of the vice president, flew to Tokyo under an assumed name to have her eyes widened by cosmetic surgeons—"To make myself as beautiful as possible for my husband," she said later.

Three doctors in Saigon specialize in eye-widening and bust-enlarging operations. Girls pay about $125 to have their noses made smaller, about $90 to have the skin at the outer corners of the eyes slit. The doctors do a thriving business.

Western beauty ideas have brought two more changes to a Vietnamese woman's life: brassieres and beauty contests. Both are immensely popular. Black brassieres are preferred, being easily visible under a lightweight garment.

There are several beauty contests a week on local television, often one a day. Girls parade in swim suits before an audience, then perform in talent competition. The contests last for hours.

There seem to be as many beauty shops in Saigon as in New York City, and run very well.

The wealthy Vietnamese woman probably speaks French and English, has been schooled abroad and will send her children abroad. She counts calories, frets over her figure, exercises to keep her waistline.

Most women of wealth daily read their horoscope and the advice to the lovelorn column in the local papers. Their families come first, but if they are progressive they take an interest in education and charities for orphans, widows and unwed mothers. They don't mix much with Americans and don't care to.

In rural areas, a woman works in the fields or runs a small shop. The garb of the peasant is black satin slacks and a form-fitting cotton shirt.

In these days of war, women are the road construction crews in the country, and the building crews on city structures. They do the pick and shovel work wherever it's needed by day, and go home to their families at night.

Prostitution has lured many girls into areas surrounding military bases. Such a job enables a girl of 18 to make as much money as a government officer. Few of them marry GIs.

A Vietnamese man legally can have only one wife. But he can—and often does—have two or three or four families. Divorce is rare. The multifamily arrangement is not liked by the women involved, but there is little legally they can do about it.

Occasionally the families live together. More often, they live separately and are only dimly aware of each other's existence.

The government is trying to encourage a one-family system and this fall issued a stamp commemorating marriage. It didn't sell too well.

RAILWAY TO 1970 FAIR

OSAKA (AP) — The Transportation Council has approved applications from the private Kita-Osaka Kyuko Railway Co. to build two railways around the site of the 1970 world exposition to be held here.

The council is an advisory body to the Transport Ministry. The applications have been submitted to the ministry for final approval.

Christmas For Hoffa Behind Prison Walls

LEWISBURG, Pa. (AP) — Christmas inside the walls of Lewisburg Federal Penitentiary will be much the same for all 1,650 inmates—including No. 33298—James R. Hoffa.

There will be a super turkey dinner with all the fancy trimmings, just one gift package, and all the holiday greetings relatives and friends cared to mail.

There will be midnight and daylight church services, caroling and finally a special movie.

Hoffa, president of the Teamsters Union, is spending his first Christmas in prison. He's now in the 10th month of an eight-year jury tampering sentence.

Hoffa reportedly received thousands of Christmas greetings from all over the country —and all were given to him if they contained only the printed holiday message and a signature. Those that carried any words of personal encouragement were withheld.

A prison spokesman said the Christmas policy is to give inmates any number of cards. Normally, mail can be received by a prisoner only from a limited list of persons which he specifies.

As for gifts, each inmate is allowed just one package, weighing no more than four pounds, and containing candy or nuts or books, items usually not available at the prison commissary.

Warden Jacob J. Parker as usual declines to discuss any prisoner because "we don't single out any man."

"The only special effort we make," he adds, "is to treat every one exactly the same. We recognize no big shots."

But insiders who've watched Hoffa eating, working and playing—he likes the weight and muscle-building equipment in the gym and an occasional game of handball—say he doesn't try to throw his weight around. He's jovial, jokes a lot, has shown no outburst of temper.

Fifteen nations with an interest in the Antarctic sustain a pact pledging this part of the world to peaceful purposes. The countries are Argentina, Australia, Belgium, Chile, Czechoslovakia, Denmark, France, Great Britain, Japan, New Zealand, Norway, Poland, Russia, South Africa and the United States.

Farm Bureau Group Attends Conference

Thirty-five county Farm Bureau presidents attended an annual county Farm Bureau presidents' conference in Jefferson City, Dec. 19-20.

Purpose of the conference was an exchange of ideas on building effective county Farm Bureaus, membership growth, how the county Farm Bureau can become involved in local county activities, and overall participation by members in the county unit.

The presidents heard comments by Dr. Daryl Hobbs, chairman of the Department of Rural Sociology of the University of Missouri, who discussed how members can participate in an organization.

At the organization's banquet, the group heard Bill Eastman, Director of Training for the American Farm Bureau Federation, who outlined their duties and responsibilities as a county president.

Attending from Pettis county was W. C. Corlew, president of the Pettis County Farm Bureau.

Overstreet Quits After 43 Years

Robert M. Overstreet, 1206 South Carr, who has been in the dry cleaning business for the past 43 years, 36 years of which has been at the Acme Cleaners, 106 West Fifth, will retire Jan. 2. Overstreet started in the business with his brother, Milton Overstreet, when the latter had bought the Sedalia Cleaners as an investment, and after seven years Bob sold his interest to his brother and went in business for himself.

Years ago the building on West Fifth was owned by his uncle, Dr. W. C. Overstreet, who had his office and also lived there with his mother. The building, after the death of Dr. Overstreet, went out of the family and was later purchased by Bob when he opened the Acme Cleaners. Both he and his son, Robert M. Overstreet, Jr., are graduates of the National Institute of Dry Cleaning at Silver Springs, Md.

A native Sedalian, his father, Dave Overstreet, operated a drug store at 312 South Ohio for many years, and his grandfather was a doctor in Smithton.

Overstreet has been active in civic affairs having served two terms as president of the Chamber of Commerce in 1946-47. He served on the City Council, the School Board, was president of the Sedalia Men's Choral Club, and is at the present time president of the Library Board.

During World War II he was vice-president of the USO, organized the USO Orchestra and received a 1,000 hour award from the USO for his services through the orchestra.

He is a member of the Calvary Episcopal Church, sings in the choir and for a time was treasurer.

The Acme Cleaners has been sold to George Bryant, Jr., owner of the Sedalia Cleaners, who plans to operate both businesses.

Mr. and Mrs. Overstreet expect to take some trips, spend some time at the lake and do a number of things they have not had an opportunity to do before.

SCOUT NEWS

Cub Scout Pack 56 of Heber Hunt School enjoyed a Christmas party for the December Pack meeting held at the school.

Den 4 was in charge of the opening flag ceremony. Cubmaster Lindy Tarwater opened the meeting. Gary Cooper, accompanied by Mrs. Cooper at the piano, led the group in singing several carols. Den 1 furnished a tree and all scouts present decorated the tree with the decorations they had made.

Elton Lathrop, assistant cubmaster, presented Bobcat pins to Jeffery Craig, David Gibson, Jeffrey Jackson, Robert Johnson, Joe Lathrop, Gregory Swift, Glenn Stephens, Richard Hausam, Kevin Hall and Kent Burkholder. Denner stripes were earned by Jeffrey Jackson, and assistant Denner stripes went to Jim Swafford, Tim Campbell, Kevin Cooper, Christ Hejtmanck, Steven Tarwater, and Dennis Weaver. The Bear badge and gold arrow under Bear were awarded to Steven Tarwater. A Bear badge went to Dennis Weaver and the Silver Arrow under Wolf went to Michael Hunnell.

Santa arrived and passed out treats to all scouts and their brothers and sisters who were present.

The Webelos decided to buy a gift of clothing for each boy at the Butterfield's Boy Ranch near Marshall. Each den donated a game and packaged food, and the Webelos and their leaders took these gifts and visited the ranch on December 17th.

Maurice Campbell, chairman, conducted the attendance count and Den No. 1 kept the traveling trophy for the second month.

All the lights were turned out as Den No. 2 held the closing ceremony. A large red candle was placed in the center of a table and 7 scouts lighted 7 white smaller candles as they told of their hopes for the holiday season.

Den mothers are: Den No. 1, Mrs. Price Jackson, Assistant, Mrs. James Johnson, Den No. 2.

CHRISTMAS GREETINGS:

As we review the year 1967 we are moved to a deeper, more sincere appreciation of our friends.

Each year we realize more fully that our friendships are what makes life worth living and we, therefore, like to feel that there is a spirit of friendship underlying our business relations with our customers. Our daily experiences confirm the feeling.

So we would like to have this opportunity Christmas gives us to tell you just how much we value your friendship. The press of worldly affairs may have made us neglectful in this respect, but the feeling was there all the same.

May the new year deepen our mutual respect for one another. May our strong friendship grow even stronger—and may our cordial relationship continue to expand through the many years to come.

Sincerely,

WISE FARM AND INDUSTRIAL EQUIPMENT CO.

A Deaf-Mute Couple Adopts Normal Child

TORRANCE, Calif. (AP) — Wayne and Madeline Christensen smiled and nodded. Their fingers flew rapidly in sign language. Yes, the deaf couple agreed, this will be their merriest Christmas.

For with them to stay is Scott, a blue-eyed, red-haired 2-year-old with normal hearing, whom a judge finally let the deaf-mute couple adopt last September after a year-long court fight.

"We hope," Mrs. Christensen signaled through an interpreter, "that it will be a lot easier now for other deaf parents to adopt children."

The Christensens had become Scott's foster parents through the county Department of Adoptions when he was one month old. But eight months later a judge turned down their petition for adoption on grounds the couple could not provide a normal home and the child was taken from them.

The case brought the Christensens wide support.

"Leading deaf educators, 90 per cent of them children of deaf parents, turned on fire hoses of help," says the couple's attorney, Ivan E. Lawrence. "There were letters and telegrams from every state."

State courts overturned the first ruling on grounds of bias and another judge granted the adoption after the couple's 6-year-old foster daughter Janett testified: "We have a home with love in it."

At the couple's modern house in this industrial Los Angeles suburb, a decorated tree sparkles in the living room and Christmas lights gleam from the eaves.

A miniature car is ready for Santa to deliver to Scott on Christmas Eve.

Mrs. Christensen, 43, can speak indistinctly. When Scott reached for a glowing Christmas tree ornament, she pulled his hand away and cautioned loudly: "Hot'."

Scott already has learned the sign language signals for dog, cat, airplane, water, eat, bed, milk, shoes and toilet. A bright light, turned on by an electronic gadget, in the Christensen's bedroom awakens them when he cries.

Christensen, 48, is a $146-a-week drill-press operator at the Garrett Corp.'s nearby Air Research plant. The couple may adopt Janett who was placed with them when she was 2 by her deaf mother.

News Briefs

OTTAWA (AP) — Changes in Canada's criminal code to ease restrictions on abortion, homosexuality and lotteries should gain rapid and overwhelming approval in the House of Commons, Justice Minister Pierre Elliott Trudeau says.

Debate on the proposals, presented in routine first reading to Commons Thursday, will begin at the end of January.

The code changes would legalize therapeutic abortions if a hospital committee certifies that continued pregnancy could endanger a woman's life or health, homosexual acts committed in private by two consenting adults and federal and provincial lotteries.

COTONOU, Dahomey (AP) — The army officers who overthrew President Christophe Soglo last Sunday have elected Lt. Col. Alphonse Alley president of Dahomey, the provisional government announced today.

Alley was the army chief of staff. He was put under house arrest when he delayed joining the revolt and finally threw in with the rebels.

Alley, a 37-year-old paratrooper who was an officer in the French army, played a leading role in the 1965 coup which brought Soglo to power.

Excelsior Springs OK For Bond Issue

EXCELSIOR SPRINGS, Mo. (AP)—A $600,000 industrial bond issue was approved by a 12 to 1 margin Friday in a special election. The vote was 287 to 24.

The money will be used for expansion of the Whittaker Cable Co. plant. City officials said the expansion would add about 125 to the company's payroll.

A Message of Hope for Peace in a Troubled World...

And she brought forth her first-born son, and wrapped him in swaddling clothes, and laid him in a manger, because there was no room for them in the inn.

And there were in the same country shepherds abiding in the field, keeping watch over their flock by night. And lo, the angel of the Lord came upon them, and the glory of the Lord shone round about them: and they were sore afraid. And the angel said unto them, Fear not: for, behold, I bring you good tidings of great joy. Which shall be to all people.

A blessed Christmas Season is the wish extended to everyone by these Sedalia professional people and elected county officials:

A COMBAT ARTIST DEPICTS Christmas in Vietnam

(See story on page 8)

Ask Them Yourself

FOR SEN. ROBERT KENNEDY

Would you object if any of your children decided to enter politics?—D. J., Schenectady, N. Y.

● No. If any of my children chose politics, I would be neither distressed nor surprised. I hope all of them will enter into careers of their own choosing and live full, happy lives.

FOR ANITA BRYANT

Instead of spending Christmas with your two children, you have accompanied Bob Hope as a singer on his Christmas tour of Vietnam. Isn't this a hardship for the children?—P.E., Patchogue, L.I.

● I'd be lying if I said it wasn't a hardship. I missed my children terribly at Christmas. In fact, I missed them so much that this year when Mr. Hope again asked me to go to Vietnam with him, I regretfully had to decline. Now for the first time my children, Bobby, four, and Gloria, three, have asked that their parents be with them at Christmas. I feel we must.

FOR JOHNNY CARSON

Who is the most interesting person you have interviewed on the "Tonight" show?—E. M., Grand Junction, Colo.

● I can't really say who was the most interesting—that's relative. The easiest person to interview is Henry Morgan. He has his own opinions and doesn't care a bit about what anyone else thinks.

FOR LEONARD NIMOY

of "Star Trek"

I've heard that you plan to quit acting and start recording more songs. Is this true?—Lorraine Dutro, Gulfport, Miss.

● I may record more songs in the future, but I certainly have no intention of giving up acting. Singing is simply a side interest, acting is my livelihood.

FOR ROY DISNEY,

president of Walt Disney Productions

How far has work progressed on "Disney World" in Florida?—Marigrace Mullins, Livermore, Calif.

● We're in the process of clearing approximately 27,000 acres of land southwest of Orlando which will be the site of the new "Disney World." The whole project is expected to take nearly 10 years to complete.

FOR DR. NORMAN VINCENT PEALE

Are you planning to write a new book? If so, what will be the subject?—Mrs. Ray L. Phillips, Royston, Ga.

● I have just completed a new book, entitled "Enthusiasm Makes the Difference." In it, I point out that one of the greatest human needs is a weapon to fight mediocrity. Enthusiasm is what determines whether we win or lose that fight.

FOR ARTHUR MODELL,

president of the National Football League

Why don't the NFL players have their names on their jerseys?—H. M. Hartman, Jr., Cumberland, Md.

● We have given some thought to the idea, but to put the names on the players' jerseys, it becomes necessary to cut down the size of the numbers. Fans attending a game in a large stadium would then have difficulty reading the players' names as well as the smaller numbers. Most NFL stadiums are larger than those in the AFL. The subject is not a closed issue, though. We may still change our minds.

FOR BARBARA BAIN

of "Mission: Impossible"

Since your husband Martin Landau is also on the show, do you feel embarrassed when you act out love scenes with other actors? —Jessica Wolf, Los Angeles, Calif.

● No. You have to be able to separate work from pleasure. I watch him shoot someone in an episode, and I know I'm not married to a murderer.

FOR HUGH DOWNS,

host of NBC's "Today" show

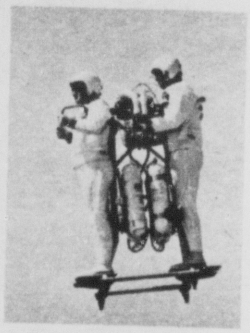
Is it true that you once were nearly bald and that the hair you now have is the result of a transplant?—S. E. Schaefer, Mineola, Texas

● I was losing my hair on top and underwent a series of hair transplants with the Orentreich Medical Group. The transplanting process employed there was invented by Dr. Norman Orentreich.

Want to ask a famous person a question? You can through this column, and we'll get the answer from the prominent person you designate. Send question, preferably on a post card, to Ask Them Yourself, Family Weekly, 405 Park Ave., New York, N.Y. 10022. We cannot acknowledge questions, but $5 will be paid for each one used.

WHAT IN THE WORLD!

Up in the Air Scientists see this two-man "Pogo" rocket as a great way to get around on the moon —or to rescue earthlings who have gotten themselves in a tight spot. If necessary, two astronauts also could ride it into a lunar orbit, rendezvous with the command ship, and depart for home. Developed by Bell Aerosystems, Pogo works via a small turbojet propulsion system. It'll be a while, though, before you can load your bundles on the rear platform and whoosh them home from the supermarket.



"Pogo" takes off

Painless Peril If your tooth aches, you're in trouble. If it doesn't ache, you may be in worse trouble. According to the American Dental Association, in any community practically all the adults and half the teen-agers have some degree of peridontal (gum) disease. Often there's no pain to let you know the problem is there. To keep from losing your molars, brush often, stimulate the gums, and visit your dentist.

The "New" Sounds Is it a bird? A plane? A put-on? Yes and no. Jefferson Airplane is the name of a "love-rock" group, the first to take off in a big way from the Haight-Ashbury hangars in San Francisco. There are six passengers aboard, and the one with the longest hair is, strangely enough, the "bird" or girl. Their name? "It was given to us by our parents."

The Stars and Your Health You can thank your stars for the diseases you get, says Carroll Righter, one of the country's better-known astrologers. Luckily—according to his new book, "Your Astrological Guide to Health and Diet"—you also can stay healthy by choosing foods acccording to those same stars. For instance, Capricorns, now celebrating their birthdays, are most susceptible to skin diseases, hysteria, leprosy, toothaches, and broken bones. His Rx: a dash of rosemary, a pinch of sage.

Parson's Payday How much do you pay your minister? The latest figures put a typical clergyman's salary at $5,914 a year. That doesn't include parsonage allowance, and it is a raise of $885 over the last five years. The parsons aren't complaining, but some of their wives are!

Cookies, Anyone? The Girl Scouts of America have an "image" problem: people tend to think they're "square." To prove they're not, they're shortening their skirts and broadening their aims. Will they ever give up selling those cookies? Says Mrs. Holton R. Price Jr., national Girl Scout president, "Maybe. But now we need the money."

What's-His-Name? You know the face. He's a nasty on the late-late movie. He's the creepy hotel clerk who rats on the hero. He's the weasel in all those Westerns who points at John Wayne and screams, "Get a rope!" He's one of hundreds of familiar faces with unknown names in a book called, naturally, "Who Is That?" Oh, yes, the "weasel's" name. It's Percy Helton.

Who's he?

Has this man developed the power to see into the future and control his own destiny?

And can he CONVEY THAT POWER TO YOU—OVERNIGHT—simply by showing you these few tricks that bring out the buried magic in your mind!

This is Al Koran, one of England's most dazzling personalities—known throughout the continent as "the World's Greatest Mind Reader and Mental Magician."

This remarkable man has proven, over and over again, that he has the ability to control his own destiny —and he is convinced that ANYONE else can do the same.

"You have a power just as magical as Aladdin's lamp," says Mr. Koran. "It is a power with the riches of a gold mine WHEN YOU KNOW HOW TO USE IT."

The Power Within You That Brings Phenomenal Results To All Who Dare To Put It To Use!

Yes, once the power of this magic in your mind is released, you will say goodbye forever to poverty, misfortune—even unhappiness. You will bring into your life material comfort, spiritual happiness, lasting peace of mind.

You will have the gleaming new car you want, a luxurious home, a holiday in the sun. You will have devoted friends, mountains of money, radiant health,—everything you ever desired.

But to have all of these precious gifts—far sooner than you have ever dreamed—you must be able to accept this one daring thought:

You must accept the fact that we all have buried within us the power to perform MAGIC. Not the magic of the stage "Magician"—the fake, the deceiver, the "sleight-of-hand-artist." But REAL MAGIC — TRUE MAGIC — MENTAL MAGIC that has allowed certain gifted men and women throughout the ages to reach out and control destiny, instead of suffering helplessly from it!

For example:

- How do you think the Fire Walkers of the Fiji Islands walk unscathed with bare feet on red hot cinders?
- How does an arthritic woman, hopelessly crippled for years, suddenly cure her rheumatism with a copper bangle around her wrist?
- What strange power within all of us has effected more than six thousand cures at Lourdes—cases of miraculous healing so carefully documented as to eradicate every possible chance of charlatanism?

Reveals His Innermost Secrets At Last, So You Can Bring Magic Into Your Life!

Or, to take a modern example, in this book Al Koran tells you about Gabrial Gargam, paralyzed from the waist down, his spine severely injured. Medical science could do nothing. But then Gargam went to Lourdes, where suddenly to everyone's amazement he raised himself to his feet. Within twenty-four hours he was walking. Medical examinations by sixty doctors proved that this complete cure could not be scientifically explained!

What mysterious power enabled Gargam to walk? What inner force enables men and women like this—outwardly no different from the rest of us—to suddenly be able to attract health, wealth, happiness . . . even to read minds . . . to see into the future . . . to perform seeming miracles?

Over thirty years ago, Al Koran determined to answer this all-important question. He spent years and fortunes searching for the truth. He delved into the Magic of the Mind all over the world. He attended hundreds of scientific conferences, spiritual meetings, primitive rituals, occult gatherings. He questioned outstanding personalities in every line of human endeavor.

And finally he discovered the mysterious "something" in every one of us that grants phenomenal results to all who accept it and put it to use . . . that takes you where you want to go with the speed of jet propulsion.

Yours At Last—This Wisdom Of The Ages That Is Performing Miracles Today!

Some of the secrets that Al Koran discovered are as old as civilization itself. They have been used to perform magic in Eastern cultures for hundreds of years.

Koran discovered that those who know how to harness this mind power can make cripples walk . . . make poor men rich . . . bring peace to the troubled, friends to the lonely.

Once you know how to use the power you can command others to do what is in your mind without saying a word . . . your can replace weakness and fear with inner strength . . . you can materialize your dreams into reality. And you can do it almost as naturally as breathing.

Liberate Just One Of These Vast Magic Powers And You Will Revolutionize Your Entire Life

In just a few minutes each day, Al Koran begins to develop the explosive mental powers that brings you new vitality, power, wealth, friends—literally anything you may desire!

Soon you find yourself fascinating people you've always wanted to be-friend . . . materializing the luxuries and possessions you could never before afford . . . exercising at will the power over others you've always dreamed of!

Then—simply by practicing your new-found ability a few minutes each day—you actually begin to stimulate your latent extra-sensory powers to read minds . . . mentally influence others . . . see into the future . . . again, literally get anything you want.

Nothing Can Stop The Magic Of Mind Power

Yes, once you bring the incredible power of your subconscious mind into conscious control, nothing can challenge its awesome power. From the day you learn to harness this buried mind power, you MUST perform feats that ordinary men can only describe as "miracles".

No Wonder It's England's Number One Best Seller! Prove It To Yourself Entirely At Our Risk!

Yes! The magic mind power lying dormant inside you is just waiting to be unleashed, just waiting to master all things and all people for you. Words cannot adequately describe how this incredible inner ability can literally obliterate your shackles of despair, poverty, poor health . . . shower you with money, power, friends, health and happiness.

It costs you nothing to prove that Al Koran's HOW TO BRING OUT THE MAGIC IN YOUR MIND is everything we say and more. We take all the risk, you reap all the benefits. Take the first magic step now. Mail the No-Risk Coupon TODAY!

Our Magic Kind of Family

By reverence and prayer, customs of foreign lands, and the joys of gift-giving, this famous novelist renews each year the spirit of Christ's birth

"WHAT COLOR IS CHRISTMAS?"

"Red and gold and green—sometimes white, but we don't need it because we always have the snow scene in the niche."

Thus some years ago I overheard my children discussing our special type of family Christmas. Then the boy said, "Christmas is presents, getting and giving them, I guess."

"Christmas," said the youngest, "is the ceremonies we do together, the carols and the snapdragon and the grab bag and the yule log and the wassail bowl and blessing the silver and trimming the tree and going down to the crèche to worship Baby Jesus. Christmas makes magic, makes you love everybody, and I don't want one single change from the way we do it ever!"

Even now, though the children have grown and bring back their own babies, none of our particular ceremonies and traditions has been omitted. Sometimes, in years of illness or loss, the prospect has been daunting; by Dec. 22 the grownups quail and talk about "cutting all this out next year, going to a hotel"—but they don't.

I think it's because in an unstable, commercialized, mechanized world we all get deep-felt comfort from tradition, from the two-day respite which produces a forgotten glow of simple festivities and spiritual recognition.

Many friends have asked for the details of our particular Christmas, which they are invited to share in part, and perhaps others might be interested.

Some of the rites are universal in this country, others come from foreign lands, and this is one way of making Christmas beautiful and rewarding. It is a home drama, and the curtain rises on Dec. 23. That is the night for what we call our "crèche party." To this, close friends of all ages are invited—whole families from great-grandparents to infants.

After praying at the crèche, each must write wishes for others.

When the guests arrive, they find an "angel wreath" on the door, and they are all welcomed inside by kisses under the mistletoe, as our British forefathers have done since Druid days. The entrance hall is papered solid with Christmas cards, and the house is decorated with ground pine and holly, with 24 candles burning throughout the rooms. These candles (preferably the fragrant bayberry) represent the winter solstice which has been celebrated at this time for thousands of years as the rebirth of the life-giving sun, the return of warmth and hope to the world.

The guests then examine a snow scene built into a niche. The "snow" is made with detergent, and it contains tiny Christmas figures—even funny ones, elves, ducks, skiers—and a small Santa Claus with his reindeer. They all point to a church on a hill—one of those lighted papier-mâché churches you can buy anywhere.

In the center is Santa Claus' miniature sleigh to hold pennies. Everyone must put a penny in it. One must give before one gets, for now follows a decorated grab bag, which contains jokes, puzzles, and trinkets and need entail no expense. This is the time to empty the "emergency drawer" with its accumulation of surplus objects that every family gathers during the year.

Then comes the "crèche ceremony" or Nativity, a vital part of Christmas in all Christian countries. We have a lovely crèche with figures from Oberammergau, but any figures would do. The point is that the crèche is separate, downstairs in the playroom, that a light bulb is taped to the top of the stable to shine on the Baby, that soft carols play in the darkened background, and that whole families visit it together.

Paper and pencil are provided, and, after praying or thinking about the Nativity, each must write wishes for others, never himself, then burn the paper in the Yule fire. An ember is saved each year to start the new fire, thus making a continuous link.

They return upstairs, hushed and solemn, from the crèche but are soon playing "snapdragon," as did Mr. Pickwick and his friends at Dingley Dell more than 100 years ago.

This is a scary game. The "snapdragons" are dried prunes, each enclosing a wrapped fortune such as the ones in birthday cakes, and they must be snatched bravely from the blue flames of burning alcohol. There are excited squeals and laughter as the fortunes are opened. The guests nibble marzipan cookies and candied citrus peel. They drink and sing. With laughter they depart.

There is no wild laughter on Christmas Eve. There is rather reverence and anticipation. The whole family trims the tree, and each has his "special" ornament to put on. Supper is scanty and is always a fish, usually carp, for the fish was an early Christian symbol. During supper we recite Clement Moore's " 'Twas the Night Before Christmas," a couplet from each person. We drink only the wassail bowl (a mixture of grape juice, ginger ale, and nutmeg).

One of us reads aloud the story of the Nativity from the Bible, and then the whole family hangs up stockings by the fireplace. The little ones will try to stay awake to hear Santa Claus' sleighbells or to see if at midnight the cat and dog will be able to talk—all animals are supposed to talk at midnight on Christmas Eve.

After supper there is the ceremony of "blessing the silver," a mid-Eastern custom often performed at the feast of the Epiphany. For this, the mistress of the house, holding a lighted candle, leads the others through the house while asking a blessing on all possessions, including the pets. One year the furnace was forgotten, and the children refused to believe it a coincidence when it broke down two days later!

On Christmas morning the elders must remain in bed until the young ones are gathered in the hall singing "God Rest Ye Merry Gentlemen" before we go to the living room to discover that Santa Claus has indeed visited us again. The stocking presents are opened in rotation so that each gift has everyone's attention.

Then there is time for a walk, and church for those who hadn't gone the night before, since this family differs from others in opening the tree presents in the afternoon. It prevents that frantic rush of gift-grabbing and prolongs the pleasure.

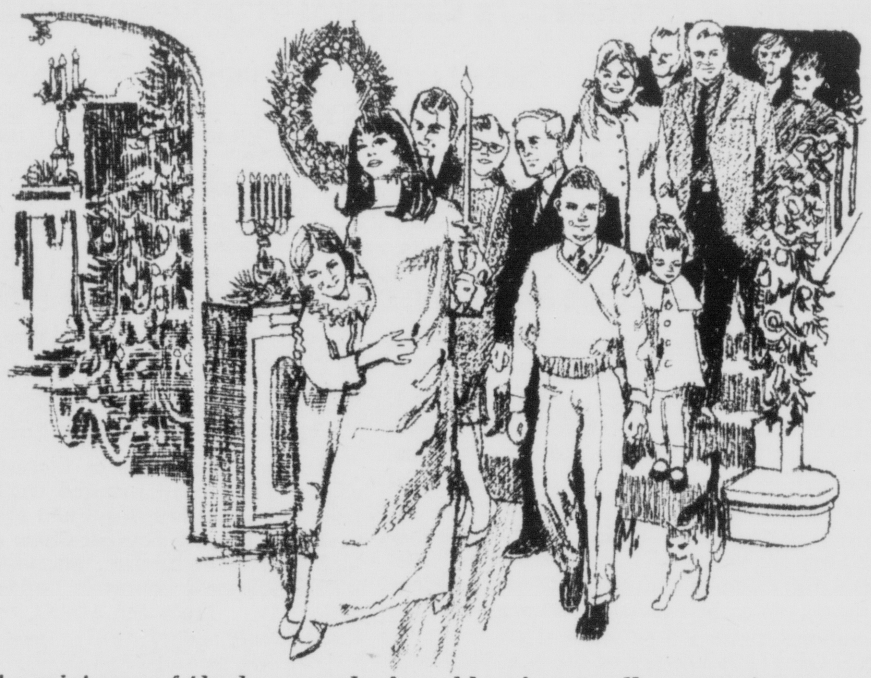
Christmas dinner is known as "The Piggy-Figgy Dinner" and comes from Tudor England. We have a suckling pig (cranberries for eyes, apple in mouth) and a dried fig soufflé with brandied custard sauce. It is prefaced by the toast we inherited from my English grandfather, "Now, I friend, drink to thee, friend, as my friend drinks to me, etc." I wonder whether anyone knows the origin of it? I've never been able to locate it.

After a drowsy lull and the carrying of the real presents from their hiding places to the tree, we gather once more in the living room. We sing to the beautiful sparkling tree and the heaped gifts beneath it. The music is the German "Tannenbaum" (the first Christmas tree came from Germany), but the words are of our own simple devising:

O Christmas tree, dear Christmas tree
With pretty baubles twining
You came to us from snow and cold
To shed on us your light of gold;
O Christmas tree, dear Christmas tree
With holy candles shining.

The father of the family acts as Santa Claus and again bestows gifts on each one in rotation. "It's my turn now!" "No, it's mine, and I'm getting that big red and gold package with the squashed corners." "Oh, boy, I wonder if Daddy remembered!"

Daddy had remembered. Everyone had. Joy is enhanced by the slow attentive pacing, while each gift is opened and acknowledged separately. Gifts from outside the group are duly noted for written thanks later.



The mistress of the house asks for a blessing on all possessions.

It will be seven o'clock before our Christmas drama is ended. We are a little sad, as one always is when the curtain falls and the theater darkens. But there are the new presents to enjoy, new books to read, new games to play, and there is deep satisfaction.

Again we have made Christmas come in our hearts. We have joined together in celebrating its true meaning, from the unselfish worshiping of the crèche, that picture of Christ's rebirth, through secular jollity and games, to the climax of giving and receiving beside the Christmas tree. Again we have evoked richness and deep security founded on long traditions.

For two days we have felt an effortless good will, and the memory will sustain us through all the inevitable trouble, storms, and uncertainties of the coming year. And we all agree with the excited cry of the youngest: "Christmas makes you feel good inside—Christmas is magic!" ◆

GIs Recall Christmas in Vietnam

A mass baptism after battle, a party at an orphanage, the eerie tinkling of bells—inspiring moments from a world of violence

● I had just written a letter to my five kids explaining why I wouldn't be with them Christmas, 1966. I was depressed when my commanding officer in the Force Logistic Command near Da Nang asked us to visit a nearby orphanage to "give the poor kids a good time."

"Not me," I said. I already felt homesick enough. "It's just another day as far as I'm concerned."

Well, the CO "asked" me again to go—and when a CO "asks" twice, you do it, like it or not.

When I walked into the orphanage to "give the poor kids a good time," they were already excited and laughing, but when a Marine appeared dressed as Santa Claus, they really went wild. I saw in their faces the reflections of my own kids—smiles, mischief, awe, a little fright, and a lot of love.

We spent a couple of hours with those orphans singing, giving gifts, playing games, and when we returned to the base, I felt how wonderful it is to enjoy Christmas. I knew my own family, safe, comfortable, and together in America, had had a wonderful time—but so had I. Those orphans who had neither safety, comfort, nor togetherness had "given a father a good time."

Lt. Comdr. Vincent Celeste, U.S.N. Huntington, N.Y.

● My company with the 26th Marines had spent Christmas Eve giving "C" rations to kids in the small village of Phu Bai in the northern part of South Vietnam. Then we were ordered to set up a perimeter defense around the village, and I found myself in a gun emplacement with my squad leader, Charles Joy.

The monsoon season was in full swing, and the rain hammered on us all the night. Charley fell asleep, but I couldn't. Then I suddenly heard it —tinkling bells.

The Viet Cong use bells sometimes to communicate with each other when they are trying to infiltrate a position. I peered into the black night. Through the pounding rain came the occasional sounds of bells —first in that direction, then in still another.

"Charley," I whispered, "wake up. I think they're coming."

Charley snapped awake, and we both strained to hear the approaching enemy. The tinkling grew louder; we heard muffled voices. Then I heard Charley chuckling.

"It's the kids," he said. "Listen, they're singing 'Silent Night.' The bells are their accompaniment."

Soon their voices came through the early Christmas morning loud and clear. Charley started humming with them, and so did I.

Lance Cpl. James P. Mitchell, U.S.M.C. Great Falls, Mont.

During our Christmas morning service, the enemy lobbed mortar shells at us.

● "Forget it," my buddies told me when we arrived at An Khe after 120 days in the field with the 1st Cavalry. I had heard that you could call your family in the States via radio-telephone, and I planned to call my wife and eight-year-old daughter, who were celebrating Christmas at my parents' home.

"I know a million guys who tried and never got through," a buddy said. "You stand in line all day and night. For what? To get nothing, that's what."

But at 3 a.m. Dec. 26 (Dec. 25 back in the States) I was in line waiting my turn at the telephone. The guys in line were as anxious as expectant fathers. For weeks they'd built themselves up for five precious minutes of talk with their families.

About 10 p.m., the operator said —"Okay, Fultz, you're on." There was a lot of garbling, then a clipped voice said: "I am sorry but a young boy says your wife is not there."

That young boy would be my brother. But I could make only one call—and it had to be to my wife. "Try another number—her aunt's," I said. All right, they told me, but you have to start all over again.

Some guys gave up and went back to the barracks heartbroken, but I stuck it out for almost 12 hours. Then the call went through again, and I heard my wife. "It's Jim," I said, and all she did was scream.

"Listen," I said, "we have only five minutes, so talk."

Then she said, "Then I want to say right off—'I love you, Jim.' "

I heard my daughter crying, too, "Come home, Daddy."

It was the most wonderful Christmas present I've ever had.

Sp/5 James E. Fultz III U.S.A. Danville, Va.

● I was with the 173rd Airborne Brigade near Saigon last Christmas. The men had prepared Christmas trees from jungle bushes.

But during our Christmas morning service, the enemy lobbed mortar shells at us. Two of our men were killed and two or three wounded. The joy of Christmas was gone.

Yet war makes men take another look at themselves. They see a friend die and ask, "Is this the end of it?" In Vietnam religion is stripped of its formalities and rituals. It is man and God alone.

That is what led 37 troopers to an afternoon service I held—a baptismal service. They either never had been baptized or had fallen away from God. Now they came to a creek where I immersed them four and five at a time. They came not out of fear or anxiety but because battle had stripped life to its bare essentrials and shown them true values.

We could never forget our friends who had been killed earlier, yet that afternoon of Christ's birthday we took solace in the fact that 37 men had been reborn as Christians.

Chaplain (Maj.) Robert Crick, U.S.A. Chattanooga, Tenn.

Our Cover: A Combat Artist Depicts Christmas in Vietnam

Paul Rickert, who painted our Christmas cover, saw the war firsthand but carrying pencil and sketch pad rather than M-16. As a 20-year-old art student, son of the noted Philadelphia illustrator, William Rickert, he was unconvinced that a career in art was what he wanted. Then came a draft call—and frontline duty as a combat artist. He saw it all—the fighting, the boredom, the deep sense of God and man. He put it down in unforgettable sketches which already have attracted national attention.

Now 22, Paul is a civilian again and studying art with the deep conviction of a youth who matured in the agonies of war.

NORMAN VINCENT PEALE—Hurt by criticism, he decided to quit the ministry — then a 3 a.m. phone call from a stranger that restored his faith in himself.

IRVING STONE — A poor boy overwhelmed and discouraged—when one word uttered by a stranger transformed him from a child into an adult.

CATHERINE MARSHALL — After losing a devoted, beloved husband—the shining moment that shaped her life's new direction.

JAMES T. FARRELL — A family broken by divorce and a father's single act that won him back his son's respect.

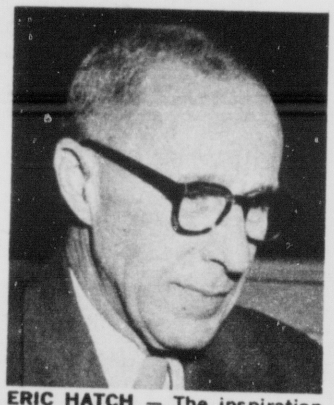
ADELA ROGERS ST. JOHNS—How her father forever taught her to speak truth with faith that has the power to be believed.

MACKINLAY KANTOR—Laughed at, sneered at, accused of lying — then the surprising incident that suddenly vindicated him.

RICHARD TREGASKIS — Convalescing from serious wounds . . . his horrible fears of terrible injuries . . . and the courage one man gave him to overcome—to face life . . . and to tackle dangers head on.

GEOFFREY BOCCA—A freighter in World War II, lost from its convoy suddenly in the middle of a scene of pure horror . . . and the inspiration of its captain saving his ship against impossible odds.

JOY ADAMSON—How her three lion cubs—helped her save animal lives the world over.



ERIC HATCH — The inspiration that transformed a frightened GI into a man who no longer knew what fear was.

THESE Famous Writers Also Help You

TAYLOR CALDWELL — In her 20's at the very bottom of despair, no job and no hope—then suddenly a hardly-noticed incident marked her life's turning point.

PEARL BUCK—Tells of a Chinese scientist father, and artist mother, forced to give away their child—and the unexpected solution fate provided.

A. J. CRONIN—A failure . . . frighteningly ill . . . alone . . . his courage gone . . . then suddenly inspiration to alter his life beyond his wildest dreams.

HARRY GOLDEN — The simple event in the sixth grade that changed an immigrant boy's life.

BISHOP FULTON J. SHEEN—How his life was changed by a leper with all the bodily decay the name signifies—all in one moment.

ROBERT RUSSELL — A blind wrestler given strength to win by an almost forgotten girl stranger met years before.

FRANCES PARKINSON KEYES—Told by her doctor she'd never walk again, then in one inspiring moment given faith by FDR to overcome her fears.

OGDEN NASH—When his professional life was withering—how six words gave him a new start.

EDWARD STREETER — A TB patient approaching the threshold of death and her triumph—and rich life . . . through every difficulty.

ANITA LOOS—Tells of a little baby who lost his mother at birth, was confined to an iron lung, and the inspired help that enabled him to live and become famous.

BILLY GRAHAM — As a young man at the seminary about to give up the ministry, what gave him the inspiration to go on.

WILL OURSLER—At night, alone in the Coliseum in Rome, and sudden powerful reborn faith.

ANDRE MAUROIS — His darkest moments and the brief unmistakable moment that gave him urgently needed inspiration.

AMY VANDERBILT—The inspiration a street urchin gave her son and her . . . and the unusual way they reciprocated.

SLOAN E. WILSON — How his father in one moment forever cured him of a human failing he didn't before even realize he had.

CLEVELAND AMORY — Saved from punishment for a schoolboy prank, taught a lesson that sustained him all life long — with humor.

WILLIAM L. SHIRER—His period of blackest despair and the inspiration given him for the rest of his life.

P. G. WODEHOUSE—His start in an office and sudden graduation to the world of letters.

WILLIAM SAROYAN—His enormous revelation and magic moment when Guy de Maupassant opened the door for him—to a new world.

ALEX WAUGH — Halfway round the world his sudden inspiration that made him see events as never before—under the cold hard light of eternal truth.

RUMER GODDEN—How one look at a river scene in India inspired her greatest success.

And MORE, MORE, real-life situations . . . perhaps one just like yours. . . how they were overcome . . . revealed by famed personalities like: J. Edgar Hoover, Sterling North, James Ramsey Ullman, Fannie Hurst, and Budd Schulberg.

How Someone Famous You Don't Even Know May

Change Your Life—NEXT WEEK

In this unique project great writers give psychological help for virtually any problem that may be now worrying you.

HERE'S NEWS OF A UNIQUE PROJECT to give help in a personal crisis . . . when psychologists say our closest loved ones are often unable to help us.

Not financial or physical help so often offered, but PEACE OF HEART, SOUL AND MIND psychologists say you then need most.

Psychologists report that even a stranger who has been through a similar experience can help us . . . just by sharing with us his own experience.

And when great writers speak from the heart with simple words about the very situation that concerns you deeply it can CHANGE YOUR LIFE NEXT WEEK!

Great Editors and Great Writers Band Together —to Help You

In a unique project of the editors of Family Weekly Magazine, really great writers of today tell simply and incredibly vividly of problems of big people and little which were overcome, problems of the mighty and humble, rich and poor, famous and unknown . . . actual people . . . true life situations . . . perhaps the very problems right now troubling you.

Great human beings expose their own weaknesses to help you . . . tell candidly of situations life had not prepared them for . . . how they came through life's crucible.

Great writers share with you their experience of worries like yours overcome . . . health or money, loneliness and family parting, fears, discouragement and failure, difficult marriage decision, divorce or separation.

Virtually whatever worry you may have someone famous you now don't know may give you the key to solving it . . . and all in one book of great psychology and great philosophy from the heart called "MY MOST INSPIRING MOMENT."

Great Human Beings with Big Hearts

You're not preached at. You're simply shown in simple words how much the same problem was met, faced and solved by others. You need not read the book through . . . but simply glance through until you find the situation most like your own.

1001 actual true-life situations . . . solutions told you by great writers like Harry Golden, Taylor Caldwell, Pearl S. Buck, A. J. Cronin, Norman Vincent Peale and Catherine Marshall.

Actual cases overcome — handicaps . . . disabilities . . . operations . . . serious illness . . . misfortunes of fate — told by the world's greatest living writers like Robert Russell, Frances Parkinson Keyes, Fannie Hurst, Will Oursler, Andre Maurois, William L. Shirer, Bishop Fulton Sheen and others.

Here is hard-headed common sense inspiration. And great humor, too, as P. G. Wodehouse, Cleveland Amory, and others make us laugh at ourselves.

Think of it. Some of our greatest writers banding together to help us . . . great personalities like Billy Graham, William Saroyan, J. Edgar Hoover, MacKinlay Kantor, We all have dark moments. And great writers like Sterling North, Bob Considine, Adela Rogers St. Johns, James T. Farrell and Edward Streeter give new insight and courage. Writers like Geoffrey Bocca, Sloan Wilson, Alec Waugh, Rumer Godden, Joy Adamson and Quentin Reynolds give unforgettable inspiration . . . tell of situation after situation of almost despair, and then an inspired moment suddenly changing lives for the better!

Step into a New World of Hope and Cheer

Great writers paint with compassion life situations that make you laugh and cry and feel a oneness with a situation like your own.

Suddenly you've stepped into a new world of unexpected help . . . of straight in the eye self appraisal . . . of a razor-sharp fresh sense of awareness . . . of seeing, hearing, feeling, tasting, touching as never before . . . of helping life provide its own richer, fuller answer.

Great human beings give you new, powerful reborn faith and renewal of confidence. You feel new personal courage . . . savor the richness of each moment . . . say "yes" again to life . . . all from one book of eternal values and revelations, of inner peace and love.

Here are words of comfort for whatever religion, color or race . . . help when you're blue, down or have given in to a human failing.

Here are crucial moments with Churchill, with General MacArthur, with FDR, stories of a great explorer, of a famous violinist. Here are poignant, moving stories of everyday people and the bittersweet of fabulous careers, and encounters with destiny, relived. Stories of suddenly-found strength in real people's lives, stories of great spiritual experiences, courage in failure, gallant invalids, cowards suddenly fearless.

Family Weekly, on behalf of its editors and the 38 great writers cooperating, has arranged for "My Most Inspiring Moment" to be lent to you for the use of any member of your family or yourself.

Offer Will NOT be Repeated this Season

"MY MOST INSPIRING MOMENT" has gathered together great writers in the only publishing venture of its kind.

From all over come reports of the astonishing effects caused by this book—of the wonderful changes in lives—the feeling of family comfort it gives.

The present edition is running out. It's First Come, First Served. This offer will not be made in this publication again this season. Don't miss this wonderful help. Rush Coupon for amazing 6-Month NO-RISK Trial!

Our Special Offer

Accept MY MOST INSPIRING MOMENT on trial for ten full days after the postman brings it to you. If in glancing through the book you do not find a real life situation similar to your own, or if you do not find the book does for you all we say it can, simply return it within the 10 days at no cost at all. . . . AMAZING MINIATURE TREE-GROWING DISCOVERY FROM FLORIDA!

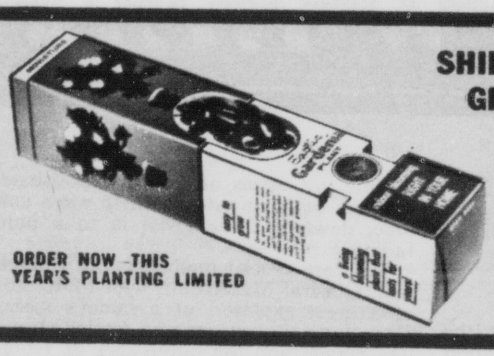
plant now & grow during the winter full-size Gardenias—indoors & at home

MINIATURE GARDENIA TREES!

Imagine the thrill of producing these delicate, fragrant snow white blossoms in your own living room!

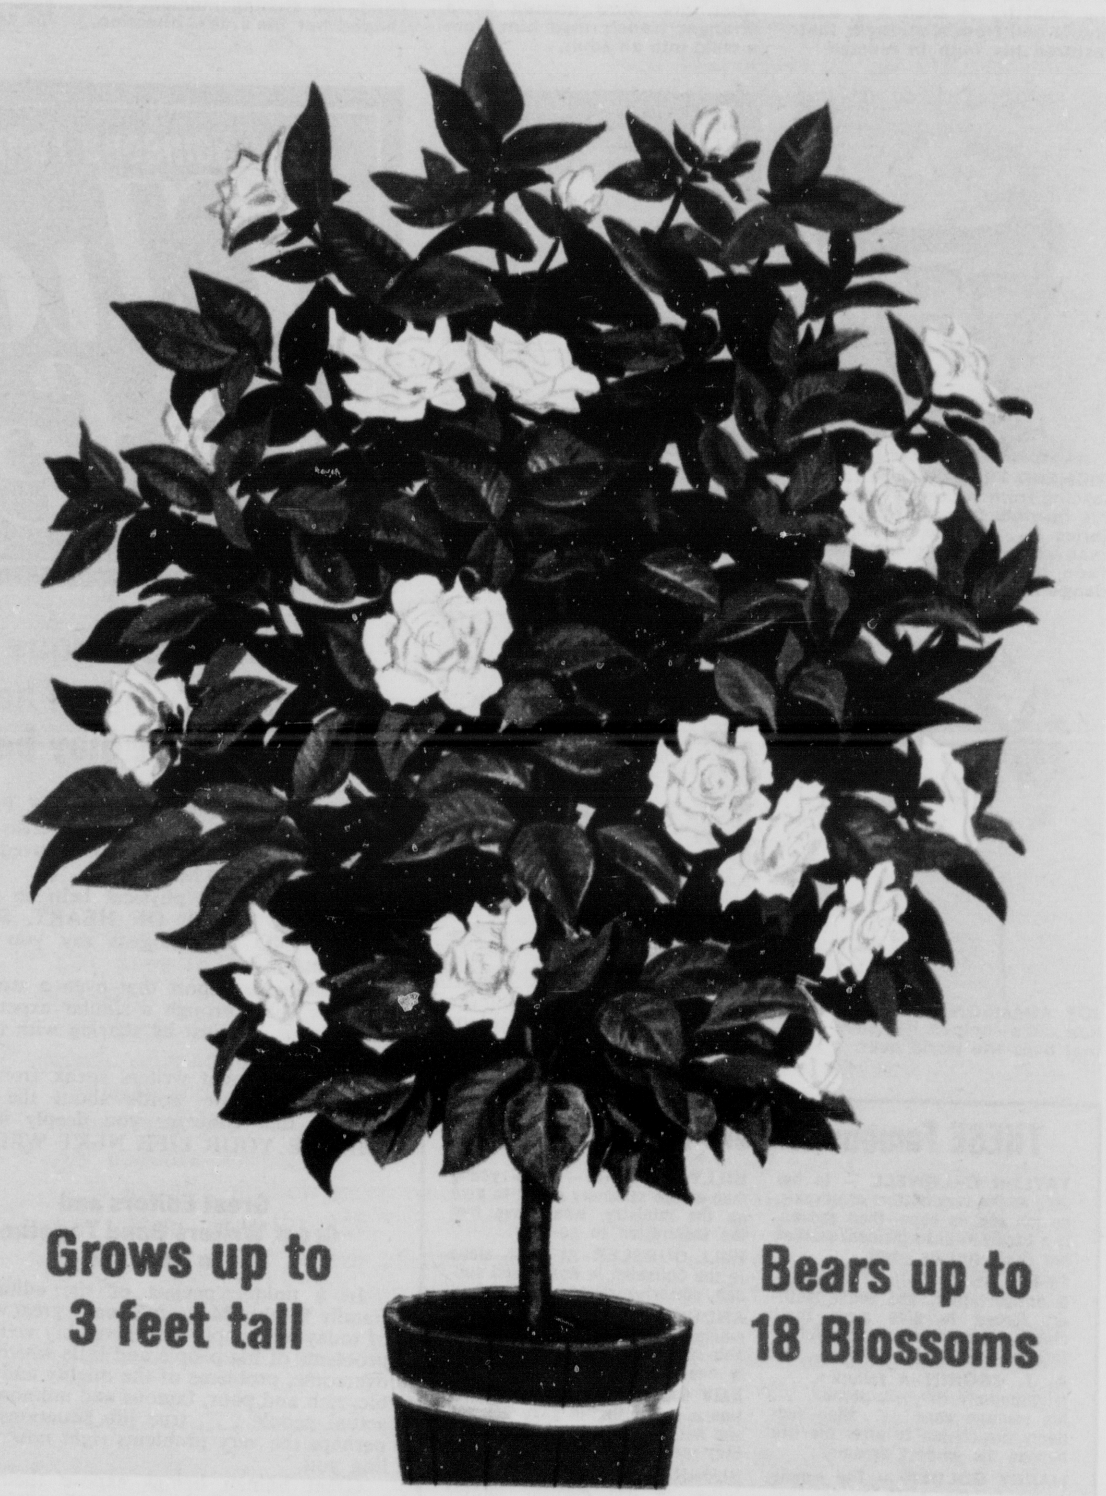
These are marvelous true miniature trees, little botanical gems grown and developed for planting INDOORS where they blossom and thrive all year 'round. All are true trees, not grafts, but rooted cuttings of good well-known varieties, and they grow exotic full-size flowers (and fruit) indoors, right in your own home! A horticulturally amazing adaptation of Bonsai, the Japanese art of growing miniature trees that dates back to 1868, they are the oldest yet newest and most exciting gardening thrill. Developed in the propagating house of our Florida tree-growing plantation, each cutting is taken from certified stock trees that never touch the ground, placed on wire frames, and roots are bound to make the trees smaller just as Oriental women used to bind their feet. It is an astonishing accomplishment! Just imagine—when the Gardenia buds, then bursts into beautiful fragrant blossoms, its unforgettable fragrance and dark green foliage will thrill you, your family and your friends—and you'll even be able to make your own corsage! They enhance and decorate your house and table all through the year, year after year. Nationally advertised in House & Garden Magazine, all these miniature trees have glossy foliage easily trimmed and shaped, all grow from 10 inches when you receive them to 3 feet tall! Beautiful to have and give, they are real conversation pieces.



ORDER NOW—THIS YEAR'S PLANTING LIMITED

SHIPPED FROM FLORIDA GROVES IN BEAUTIFUL COLOR GIFT-BOX

Just think what a wonderful and really unusual gift these trees make. Each is in its own pot, individually boxed in an especially nice, bright, colorful package that enhances the tree. All are shipped directly to you from our Florida groves. You can have your own little grove if you order now!



Grows up to 3 feet tall

Bears up to 18 Blossoms

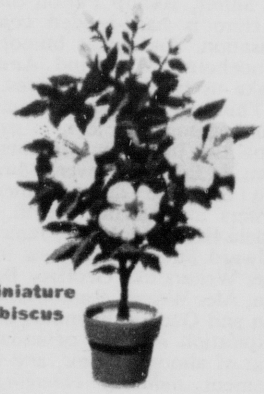
Also Available: Miniature Coffee, Hibiscus & Palm Trees

Miniature Coffee Tree

Now you can produce plump, tasty clusters of prime coffee beans nestled among snowy white blossoms, and when the Central American coffee tree buds, then bursts into beautiful fragrant blossoms (with an unforgettable scent of jasmine) then grows heavy, aromatic clusters of beans, you even will be able to make your own coffee, fresh every day!

A touch of tropical Florida in your home all year. Versatile, it is America's easiest-to-grow indoors tree. Simple growing instructions will permit you to be the sole judge of the tree size — from 10 inches to 6 feet! Palms love deep shade and thrive where other plants refuse to grow.

Florida Palm Tree



Miniature Hibiscus

An exotic touch of the West Indies, a slow easy grower that produces really magnificent blossoms. Famous as Hawaii's national flower, the Hibiscus flowers profusely. There is always a formation of buds behind each bloom that blooms itself shortly thereafter. You have your choice of red or golden.

MINIATURE INDOOR FRUIT-BEARING TREES!

ORANGE

Get your greatest gardening thrill when these sturdy little trees BUD, BLOOM and BEAR fruit right in your own home! Easier to grow than many common house plants, their glossy green foliage is easily shaped. It's a fine way to have fresh fruit all year 'round, and before you know it you'll be eating oranges that you'll pluck yourself sitting at the breakfast table. Bears up to 50 fruit!

LEMON

Countless articles have been written describing the many, many years of pleasure growing lemon trees in your home. Watching these miniature trees bud, bloom and bear fruit as a direct result of your own efforts will be a great "green thumb" thrill. You'll have fresh, full-size lemons year after year in addition to a handsome and unique tree whose foliage you can trim and shape as you wish.

LIME

Anyone having had the pleasure of tasting Florida's famous "Key Lime Pie" will need no introduction to this wonderful little tree. Those who have not should start a lime grove in the kitchen window now. Eager and easy to grow indoors, the lush dark-green foliage, fragrant blossoms and subsequent fruit will provide a gardening achievement not soon forgotten.

THE BIRTHDAY

By PHYLLIS McGINLEY

Pulitzer Prize winner; author of "Times Three," "Sixpence in Her Shoe," and "Wonderful Time"

On Christmas Eve, some say,
Tall angels chosen for their sweet address
And reassuring aspect, take their way
To earth. There in all gentleness
They lift on either arm
A few most fortunate children sleeping warm
In their December nurseries, kiss them twice,
And bear them off to visit Paradise.

It is the Christ Child's Birthday and the East
Is lit by a bright star. These children come
As playmates for Him, keepers of His feast.
They bring with them such pandemonium,
Such singing and such laughter
That Heaven shakes to its remotest rafter.

Along the tasseled floors
They drive their rainbow hoops like charioteers.
They toss gold balls; make kites of meteors;
Listen with Him to the melodious spheres
Chanting in chorus; climb the unfading trees
Of that celestial weather;
Reach forth to touch the spinning galaxies;
Then all together,
Bidding their Host affectionate goodnight,
Blow out the stars like candles where they burn,
And drowsily return
(Nodding upon soft pinions in the flight)
To their accustomed beds.

Yet when they seek
To tell that journey and the Birthday games,
They falter in the tale. They cannot speak
Such wonders by their names,
So presently fall silent. Parents, shaking
Incredulous heads can only shrug and smile,
Saying, "They dreamed a dream who now are waking.
They will remember nothing after while."
But they are wrong. That child whom Christmas captures Grows beautiful and wise,
Possessor all his days of arts and raptures
And heaven-dazzled eyes.

Now Possible To Shrink Painful Hemorrhoids

And Promptly Stop Itching, Relieve Pain In Most Cases.

Science has found a medication with the ability, in most cases—to stop burning itch, relieve pain and actually shrink hemorrhoids.

In case after case doctors proved, while gently relieving pain and itching, actual reduction (shrinkage) took place.

The answer is Preparation H®—there is no other formula like it for hemorrhoids. Preparation H also soothes inflamed, irritated tissues and helps prevent further infection. In ointment or suppository form.

POLLY'S POINTERS

DEAR POLLY---Before closing my top load washer, after using it, I wipe the moisture off the lid and then put six or eight paper towels in the machine next to the agitator to absorb any moisture and damp odors. Do not forget to remove them before doing the next wash. ---ELNA

DEAR POLLY—I wrapped all the poles in my closets with that pretty adhesive backed paper. It is wonderful for this because the hangers glide easily, it pretties up the pole, and no more chips of paint fall on the closet floor.—SELMA

DEAR POLLY---I had an old calfskin purse that was in good condition and I hated to throw it away. I made a pattern from one of my slippers and then made the most comfortable insoles I have ever worn in my shoes. A pair was made from each side of the bag by reversing the pattern so the widest part of it came by the narrow part of the other one.---M. McG.

Polly pays a dollar for every idea used. Send them to her, care of this newspaper.

DEAR POLLY---If any of the readers have difficulty with a "pull chain" light put a couple of drops of oil on the very top of the chain. Pull a couple of times and see how easily it works.---MRS. W. J. H.

DEAR POLLY—The frame of a discarded lamp shade, especially the bedroom size, makes a good hat rack.—HERB

DEAR POLLY---I used to buy throws to protect my sofa from little fingers but have discovered that a colorful bedspread is far better. They are large enough to push in, stay in place better and hold up longer under the children's rough use and they launder well, too.---ALICE

DEAR POLLY—I use an old suitcase for storing dress patterns. They can be arranged according to sizes and are easy to find when needed.—REBECCA

DEAR POLLY---When refinishing furniture I find nylon net is the finest material there is for removing old paint and varnish. A handful of the net will gather and hold quantities of the old softened sludge which dries in a few minutes and can be shaken out like dry crumbs. Two alternating pieces of net are all one needs.---MRS. G. V. S.
